News and Gossip of the Day in Washing-ton-Who Can Be Fighting Bascom Myrick?—South Carolina Fight.

Washington, April 3.—(Special.)—The president seems partial to New York and Massachusetts in his appointments, as will be seen from the list below. He gives these two states the two assistant secretaries of the treasury. Mr. Gurtis is an ries of the treasury.

Anti-snapper.

Here are the nominations sent in today:
William Edmond Curtis, of New York, to be assistant of the treasury, vice Genio M. Lambertson, resigned.

Charles S. Hamlin, of Masschusetts, to be assistant secretary of the treasury, vice John A. Gear resigned.

James H. Eckles, of Illinois, to be comptroller of the currency.

James F. Meline, of the District of Columbia, to be assistant treasurer of the United States.

States.
T. Strobe Farrow, of South Carolina, to be second auditor of the treasury.

John B. Brawley, of Pennsylvania, auditor of the treasury for the postoffice department.

James G. Willie, of Florida, duputy fifth auditor of the treasury.

Postmasters—Jones G. Moore, at Pratt City, Ala.; Isadore Zucharias, at Bainbridge, Ga.; Clarence W. Boshamer, at Statesville, N. C.; W. O. Prentiss, at Beaufort, S. C.; John W. Clark, at Ripley, Tenn.

He hoped they would agree upon some man. He was told that Mr. Couper had only been a citizen of Atlanta for a short time, while the other two applicants had been residents of the city for many years.

many years.
"I do not believe in taking a new man for postmaster in a town the size of Atlanta, unless there be a general demand from the people for him," said Mr. Cleveland when this statement about Mr. Coupr's brief residence was made to him. Still Mr. Cleveland has decided to hands off in this fight. He says the senators must agree upon a man, and whoever that may be he will appoint.

The South Carolina Fight.

T. Strobo Farrar, of South Carolina, who was appointed second auditor of the treas-ury today, is a "conservative" in the politics of that state. He was recommended by Senator Butler. The reform congress-men refused to endorse him, but in the face of this refusal Senator Butler's endorsement carried him through. This would seem to indicate that the president is not inclined to consider Senator Irby and the reformers of South Carolina in making appointments from that state.

The president also appointed W. J. Prentiss postmaster at Beaufort upon the recommendation of Senator Butler. The "reformers" are very angry that the president should accept the recommendations of Sen-ator Butler in preference to them.

The president does not seem disposed to remove Marshal Buck immediately. He said today that it was not his policy to make removals without good cause. In the event, however, that it could be demonstrated to him that there was a general demand in the state for his removal and the reasons were good, he would do so. But it is not probable that any action in regard to his removal will be taken in

Who Can Be Fighting Him?

Georgians here were surprised that the nomination of Mr. Bascom Myrick for consul general to Berlin was not sent to be senate this morning.

There was a rumor that his nomination had been antagonized by a prominent Geor-gian here on account of some of his past utterances of a personal nature in The Americus Times. That may be true, but it is quite certain that his nomination will be sent in this week, notwithstanding such opposition. The president stated to the senators this morning that he had decided to appoint him. His name may go in tomorrow. There were no nominations of consuls today.

The Georgia Boys.

The president today appointed I. Zacharius ostmaster at Bainbridge, vice L. H. Peacock removed. The appointment was made upon the earnest solicitation of Congressman Ben Russell.

The senate today confirmed the nominations of William Dunbar as postmaster at Augusta, and James Brown as postmaster Colonel Tom Chappell wants a consulship

UI FAEL YND MYG CHILL IN

Office Seekers Could Not Get an Auashinton, April 3.—This was "blue day" at the white house, at least in official portion of the mansion, for this is against importunate office hunters levotes himself to "matters requiring minterrupted attention." Official call-ere few and far between. They came up stairs in an uncertain way as if they feared they would not be received, and when their suspicions were confirmed, wandered into Private Secretary Thurber's room and drifted out again, pausing in the course of their walk long enough to gossip awhile with the newspaper men.

So soon as Secretary Carlisle is relieved from the rush of callers, which up to the present time shows no diminution, he will turn his attention to the changes in that department so far as the chiefs of divisions and bureaus are concerned. He thinks that in order that the work of the department should be carried out in harmony with the administration, the officers that have the control of the various bureaus should be of the same political faith as those in power. There are some of the chiefs, however, who are looked upon as the secretary's official family, who have held their places for many years, and whose places it would be an extremely difficult matter to fill without inigring the public service. They have, so intimately allied themselves with the proper working of the department that it is not possible that Secretary Carlisle will change them, but in all cases where the offices are filled by persons whose appointment was made by the republican administration chiefly for political reasons, and where the service will not suffer by a change being made, democrats will be put in.

Will Not Interfere with the Commission.

An official of the state department, known to be in the confidence of Secretary.

An official of the state department, known to be in the confidence of Secretary Gresham, in conversation today in regard to the Behring sea commission said that while the secretary may incline to the opinion that the allowances of some of its members are excessive, he is not disposed to interfere in the matter, especially while the arbitration is in progress, and that he the arbitration is in progress, and that he has no thought of relieving any of the attaches of the commission or of making any change in its personnel. It was stated further that the secretary was especially desirous of avoiding any action that might possibly embarrass those charged with the management of the case of the United States in the present advanced state of progress, especially as he knows Mr. Foster so well, and has confidence in his judgment and ability.

Will Adjourn Next Week.

It is the general impression in the senate that the extraordinary session of that body will adjourn the first or middle of next week. The president will probably by that time be ready to notify them that he has no further communications to make. When the contested election cases are disposed of it is not likely election cases are disposed of it is not likely that a quorum will remain in the city, as there have already been some departures, and many other senators will leave so soon as the cases are out of the way. There are some who think that an adjournment can be had by the last of this week, but it is not believed by the majority that the work can be finished by that date.

The Roach Investigation. Though the republicans still claim that they will push the Roach investigation and so have the scope of the resolution extended that the manner in which Mr. Roach's elec-tion was accomplished and the part the democratic steering committee played in it developed, there are few who really believe that anything more will be done this session than the reference of the resolution to the committee on privileges and elections. They may order an investigation, but no work will be done in this direction until the session next fall.

The serate was in secret session this afternoon for more than an hour, and at the end of that time only a few postmasters were given out as having been confirmed. This was, however, the most unimportant part of the session. The Behring sea conference and the cases of the two governments were submitted to the senate, but not read.

The Russian treaty was then taken up and demanded the attention of the senators for demanded the attention of the senators for some time. The recent criticisms of this treaty in the newspapers of the country have given the instrument something of a political tinge, and the senate is no nearer a solution on the question—whether or not to release the injunction of secrecy—than it was a week or ten days ago. The discussion hinges week or ten days ago. The discussion hinges upon just what amount shall be made public. The treaty was originally negotiated by Mr. Bayard under Mr. Cleveland's first term. The objections that have been aimed at the convention strike at clauses that were in the original document, but which, it is said, do not now appear. The republicans insist that the treaty as adopted shall be published along with the original text, so that it shall appear exactly what was proposed and what was accepted. The democrats oppose this. No conclusion was reached when the senate adjourned.

A CLAIMANT FROM KANSAS.

Occupied by Mr. Martin.

Washington, April 3.—The senate today began the fifth week of its extraordinary ses sion with a fair attendance of senators in their seats and with a large audience in the galleries. The rights of three senators from the states of Montana, Washington and Wyoming to seats in the senate was discussed in affirmation of that right by Mr.

Wyoming to seats in the senate was discussed in affirmation of that right by Mr. Turpie.

Another question as to a senator's right to a seat was raised today by the presentation of a petition from Joseph W. Ady, of Kansas, asserting that Mr. Martin, who was sworn in as a senator for the transfer of the opening of this extractment session, was not duly elected and that he, Ady, now desires to be admitted to the seat.

Mr. Stewart presented resolutions of the Nevada legislature in favor of the passage of an act for refunding the indebtedness of the Central Pacific Railroad Company to the government, provided that the act did not interfere with the free and unlimited coinage of silver—the principal argument being that if the property of the company should pass into the hands of the government it would be exempt from state and local taxation. The resolutions were referred.

Mr. Hoar presented the petition of Joseph W. Ady, claiming that John Martin was never duly elected senator from the state of Kansas and that Ady was duly elected and desired to be admitted to a seat in the senate accordingly.

ate accordingly.

The resolution was read and was referred to the committee on privileges and electo the committee on privileges and elections.

Mr. Hoar also offered a resolution declaring it inexpedient to pass the joint resolution of the last house of representatives for a constitutional amendment for the popular election of United States senators.

The report of the committee on privileges and elections, in favor of the admission of the three senators apointed by the governors of Wyoming, Montana and Washington was then taken up and Mr. Turpie made an argument in support of it. He devoted a good deal of his argument to the meaning of the words "vacancy" and "happening, as used in the constitution with reference to the senate and contended that they were not to be construed in a narrow sense of an accidental occurrence, but must be regarded as used in the most general sense.

When Mr. Turpie concluded his speech, Mr. Vest took the floor to address the senate on the same subject, but yielded to a desire for an executive session. He made a motion to that effect and the senate thereupon proceeded to the consideration of executive business and afterwards adjourned until tomorrow.

But There Are Two More Missing, and There Is Little Hope of Their Be-ing Taken Out Alive.

Hazleton, Pa., April 3.-At 9:30 o'clock this morning another mine horror occurred just on the outskirts of this city. The mine is known as the Laurel Hill, and is operated by Pardee Brothers. The nature of the accident was almost a repetition of the Jeansville disaster of two years ago when inches the property of the propert eighteen men were drowned. A report that the water now standing in the Sugar Loaf mine had burst into the Laurel Hin and that a cave-in followed it was at first circulated. About eight hundred men are employed in this mine. The effect produced by the report of the accident was electri-fying. In less than five minutes one thoufying. In less than five minutes one thousand people were hurrying to the scene of the disaster. Among the first to arrive was Frank Pardee, one of the operators. His intention of descending into the ill-fated mine was barely announced whe twenty miners stepped forward to accompany him. They were at once lowered into the pit and when the carriage returned, Mine Superintendent Durkin, heading a band of rescuwhen the carriage returned, Mine Superintendent Durkin, heading a band of rescuers, boarded it and was immediately dropped into the fateful mine.

The mine is now working the sixth lift. with the seventh in progress of sinking. The fifth lift is the point at which the accident occurred and is over six hundred yards below the surface. Although the engines taxed to their greatest running velike hours to the thousand anxiuos friends and relatives who had congregated about the mouth of the slope. Superintendent Durkin and his band of rescuers had barely reached the bottom when the signal to hoist again was given. It had on board a crowd of three grimy, excited miners. These three men had been caught by the tremendous rush of water and were carried by it to the foot of the slope. The three sustained serious injuries cuased by being knocked against timbers. They were speedily conveyed to their homes.

The first authentic information of the disaster was then made known and proved a scurce of great relief to the throng of people assembled. The story of the dood, so far as can be ascertained at this writing, is as follows:

ple assembled. The story of the nood, so far as can be ascertained at this writing, is as follows:

The east gatgway of the fifth lift of Leurel Hill is driven on what is known as the Wharton vein. Another gaugway from the same lift is driven on the big mammoth vein, situated in No. 3 colliery. The fifth lift of the latter slope has been but partly opened with probably one hundred yards of gangway leading off the bottom. It was about 9:30 o'clock this morning when David Williams lit the fuse preparatory to firing on No. 19. Immediately after the blast went off, a terrible roar was heard and an immense body of water rushed down to 19 breast, filling it to the roof. The rush of water into the gang changed the current of air, and like a graphic signal, warned all of danger. The men fled to places of safety, and later nearly all were rescued and brought to the surface. Two men are still in the mines and have, no doubt, perished. They are Thomas Hudson and John Trembath. Some of the rescued may die from injuries sustained in being washed against rocks. the rescued may die from injuries sustained in being washed against rocks.

DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS.

The Most Successful Electrocution Yet at Sing Sing.

Sing Sing.

Sing Sing, N. Y., April 3.—James W. Hamilton, a colored ex-preacher and convicted wife murderer, died in the electric chair today. The death warrant was read by Warden Brown in the condemned man's cell at 10:30 o'clock last night. Hamilton sat on the bed and showed some signs of emotion when the document was read. Hamilton walked with firm step to the death chamber. Two priests were close beside him. Hamilton took his seat in the chair with a glance of curious interest death chamber. Two priests were close beside him. Hamilton took his seat in the chair with a glance of curious interest in, the surroundings. His lips moved in response to prayers for the prisoner, which Father Creeden repeated, but no words could be heard.

Hamilton was quickly strapped in the chair. At 11:10-3 all connections were made and Warden Brown gave the signal. A current of 1,740 volts were turned on and the victim in the chair jumped upward, straining at the strops, and remained rigid. A crucifix which he held in his right hand was clasped still tightly, but his lips stopped moving and all signs of life ceased at the instant of contact. The current was left on for sixty seconds, then turned off. The physicians stepped forward and listened for heart beats and felt for the pulse. They declared the subject dead at 11:13-10.

The electrocution differed from all its predecessors in that only one shock was given. There was no scorching or scalding of the skin or steaming at the electroids, and while the man was above medium height and of massive build, it was evident that death was instantaneous. Such was the verdict of all who were present who had seen former executions in the electric chair. Electrician Davis said it was the most successful at which he had officiated. He gave a voltage at 1,740 and amperes at 75-10.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED

And Several Others Injured by a Railroad Collision in Missouri.

Collision in Missouri.

Edwardsville, Mo., April 3.—A terrible railroad accident occurred at 6:15 o'clock tonight on the Jacksonville Southern road about three miles south of Edwardsville, near Glencarbon, a mining town. No. 20, a freight going south, and No. 10, a passenger going north, collided, completely wrecking the freight train, both engines and a passenger car. Four men were killed and a number of others seriously wounded. The killed are: Cal Ahspaugh, engineer; Jim Hambley, fireman; Hugh Woods, fireman; Scotty Welsh, a workman in mine No. 1, at Glencarbon. Among the injured were J. F. Vandevent, baggageman, seriously; Walter McGarraghan, engineer of the local, badly injured in neck.

Shoots Himself at the De Soto.

Savannah, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—Carl

A. Reitz one of the most prominent German residents of Savannah, and a representative of a number of leading insurance compaies, shot and killed himself tonight.

Whether it was a case of suicide or, as is claimed, an accidental death, must be set-ton is divided among those acquainted with the facts of his death as to this.

The shooting occurred in Mr. Reitz's room in the De Soto hotel about 8 o'clock. His wile had just left the room. Her husband had started to making arrangements for a trip on which he had announced he would start with her tomorrow. Soon after she left the room the report of a weapon exploding aroused the house. Porters were at once sent through the rooms to discover in which it had happened.

When the door of Reitz's room was opened his body was seen lying upon the itoor by the trunk. It was a ghastly sight. The whole upper part of his head was blown off and the gun a double-barreled one, was protruding through the pulpy remnants, having been thrown forward by the force of the explosion. The blood and brains made a sickening spectacle.

It was found that one barrel of the gun, which was fully loaded with buckshot, had been discharged. It was thought that he might have taken the gun from the trunk, but it is claimed that on investigation it was too long to go into it. It is claimed that there was any such reason existing. The shooting caused great excitement and was soon the talk of the entire city as Reits was known by all. Reitz was forty-seven years old. He came to Savannah about twenty years ago.

Grasmere, Fla., April 3.—(Special.)—The dead body of Louis Warnot was found in a water closet here this morning. It was terribly mutilated and the old man had evidently been killed in a terrific strugmurder. He was a quiet, inoffensive man and had no enemies. The deed had evidently been done to The deed had evidently been done to prevent detection in burglary, but there is not the slightest clue to the murderers. Leter discoveries show that Warnot was surdered with an axe, the handle of which had been sawed off. His temple was crushed and his head split in six places. Both pieces of the axe have been found and the weapon may yet be identified. Some small change was taken by the murderers from the store, but most of the money was safely concealed in the old man's bed. Only a few goods were taken, perhaps none.

Warnot shot at a man who was attempting to break into the store several weeks ago. There is no clue which can be trusted, but several persons are under suspicion and are being watched.

REFORM KNOCKED OUT.

Cincinnati Sticks to the "Gang" Boys on a Light Vote. Cincinnati, O., April 3.—(Special.)—The city election today was the quietest ever held in the city. The democratic candidate for superior judge, Samuel F. Hurt, was elected over John C. Schwartz, republican, by 457 majority, while Emil Rhese, republican, for police court clerk and T. J. McGranahor, republican, for magistrate, were chosen by round majorities.

The only significant feature of the election was that all the gang candidates in both parties were re-elected by large ma-jorities, although a hard fight was made against them by several papers of the city. Every man known to favor the gas and street railway companies was successful and the so-called effort for reform was badly knocked out. There will be no change in either the board of legislation or the board of education, except that in the latier the democrats gain one mem-ber. The vote was 20,000 short of that last fall.

Columbus, O., April 3.—The republicans of Columbus carry the council and school board, with the indications that the democrats will elect the mayor and city ticket by najorities ranging from one to three hundred. The democrats make a slight gain over the vote of last year. Reports from Ohio towns show mixed results and a division of honors is even.

Toledo, O., April 3.-This morning Judge Ricks, in the United States court, rendered his decision in the case of the Lake Shore engineers, who, obeying the laws of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, refused to handle Ann Arbor freight, as there was a strike on that road.

The court held that Engineer Lenon, inasmuch as he had been twice ordered to move the cars by the offi-cials of the company, and did not do so until ordered to do so by the brotherhood officers, after the boycott was raised, was guilty of ontempt of court. The seven other men were discharged. Judge Ricks read Judge Taft's decision in the Ann Arbor injunction case in which Chief Arthur, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was made a party. He decided that the whole brotherhood was a conspiracy against the law of the country. and that, inasmuch as Arthur gave the orders that precipitated the boycott, the order for a temporary injunction against Arthur, as prayed for, was allowed.

A TRUCE DECLARED,

Washington, April 3.—Secretary Hoke Smith has received a telegram from the agent at Wagoner, I. T., regarding the Choctaw troubles, that a temporary truce was arranged yesterday and the armed forces are disbanding. The situation is yet serious and seemingly uncompromisable under the present Choctaw government. A full report will be mailed tonight. Pending your consideration and action, all hostilities will cease. While great relief is experienced at the disbanding of the armed forces, the feeling is one of dread uncertainty." A copy of this telegram has been sent to the secretary of war for his consideration.

HESTER'S STATEMENT

Month of March.

New Orleans, April 3.—The movement of the cotton crop, as given in Secretary Hester's mouthly New Orleans cotton exchange statement issued this morning, shows that the amount of cotton brought in sight for March was the smallest for that mouth since 1890. The deficiency, which at the close of February was 2,210,655 compared with last year, and 1,713,894 compared with the year before, has been increased to 2,356,797 under the former and 1,885,549 under the latter. The total number of bales brought into sight during the thirty-one days of March, 1891, show a decrease from last year of 146,232, and from the year before of 17,165.

The movement from the lat of September to March 31st includes total receipts at all United States delivery ports of 4,538,319, against 6,481,180 last year and 6,251,476 the year before; net overland movement by railroads across the Mississippi, Ohio and Potomac rivers, 767,031, against 1,111,884 and 942,053; southern mills takings, exclusive of quantity consumed at southern out ports, 486,839, against 470,923 and 426,290; and interior town stocks in excess of those held at the commencement of the season, 255,303, against 330,502 and 303,222. Decided in Favor of Athens. Athens, Gn., April 3.—(Special.)—The city has scored another triumph in the waterworks matter and the outlook is in her terworks matter and the outlook is in her favor again.

The injunction proceedings that have been pending in New York to prohibit the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company from delivering the Athens city bonds to the Equitable Mortgage Company, has been decided in the city's favor. The plaintiff in the injunction case alleged that the Athens Water Company, of which he was a bondholder had the explusive franchise. a bondholder, had the exclusive franchise for supplying the city with water for a long term of years yet to come. The city replied that such franchise was granted to the water company conditionally, and that the conditions upon which it was based have not been fulfilled. The decision of the New York court seemed to sustain the city, and leaves them free to proceed with the construction of their new waterworks plant.

What the next move of the desperate fight being made by the old company will be is uncertain, though it seems that they have about exhausted all their resources legal and otherwise.

Miss Lyle Dead.

Miss Maria Josephine Lyle, the mineteenyear-old daughter of Judge and Mrs. Jimes
R. Lyle, died last night at the family home on College avenue.

Miss Lyle had been an invalid for many months, and death relieved her of much suffering.

She was one of the most invaligent girls in Georgia, and would have made her mark in the literary world had she lived.
She had a sweet, even tempered disposition, and was almost worshiped by her family and friends.

The funeral took place from the residence this afternoon.

Who Will It Be?

Now that the Hon. T. W. Rucker has been made assistant United States district attorney, Athens has got to have a new city attorney, and the question is who will it be? will it be?

Three candidates, it is said, are already in the race, and all are strong men. Judge James R. Lyle, Thomas E. Mell and Judge George C. Thomas are all said to have offered their services, and it is hard to tell which of the trio will be successful. They are all good lawyers and popular gentlemen.

THOSE WHO WERE INJURED.

Narrow Gauge Wreek.

Jug Tavern, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—
All the parties that were injured in the wreck on the Gainesville, Jefferson and Southern railroad Friday night are getting along very well, considering the extent of their injuries. Miss Williams, of Social Circle, is still in a critical condition. Her recovery is uncertain. Mrs. Nowell, of Hoschton, is doing very well. Rev. J. H. Wood has rested very well during the day and it is now thought that he will recover. The rest of the injured have been moved to their homes at Gainesville. The Georgia railroad's wrecking crew has been putting in good time since Saturday at 12 o'clock clearing up the wreck and rebuilding the trestle. Superintendent S. A. Hemphill is in charge and expects to have everything ready to resume the schedule by Wednesday. There have been no trains from Social Circle to the wreck since it occurred, all the engines being between here and Gainesville, except one, and that was at the shops in Angusta. It is to be forwarded to Social Circle today and there will be an extra so as to accommodate Monroe Camps and Bethlehem until the trestle is completed so as to resume the regular schedule.

The damage is going to fall exceedingly heavy on the road. Narrow Gauge Wreek.

Death of Mr. Julius Coh

Death of Mr. Julius Cohn.

Sandersville, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—
When the death of Mr. Julius Cohn was announced on yesterday it was a shock felt by the whole community. He had been ill for two weeks, but that the disease would prove fatal was unexpected.

The deceased was a member of the firm of P. Hopps. Son & Co., and occupied a high social and business position in our city and elsewhere. He leaves a mother, sister and brother to mourn his loss and many friends and relatives are now saddened by his demise. He was twenty-nine years old and being cut down in the prime of manhood renders it doubly sad. He will be buried in Savannah tomorrow.

A few nights ago, taking advantage of the friendly darkness, Gus found his way to the rear of Tiller & Suttle's saloon, 97 West Peters street. After getting out, Gus walked off chuckling to himself and congratulating himself upon the successful carrying out of his little scheme. The robbery was reported to the detec-tive force the next day and Detective Bedford secured enough evidence to warrant the arrest of Chandler. He instructed Patrolman Lockhart to arrest him which was done yesterday morning. Yesterday after-noon the dude was sent to jail on a commit-ment to await trial for burglary.

There are many funny things, but there are few funnier than a pawnbroker's daily report. A recent-city ordinance requires the pawnbrokers of the city to make a daily report to the chief of detectives of the goods taken in pawn by them.

CITY NOTES.

At 11:30 o'clock last night the shavings room in the rear of Tranyham & Ray's factory on Decatur street, was discovered to be on fire, and an alarm was rung in from box 42, corner of Decatur and Ivy streets. The dry shavings burned like oil, and when the department reached the spot the building was completely enveloped in flames. A few minutes' hard work extinguished the fire. The damage was only nominal. This, is the second time within the past few months that this building has caught fire.

The preachers of Atlanta held their regular monthly meeting in the basement of the First Methodist church. The feature of the meeting was an address by Bishop Fitzgerald. The subject of his talk was "Missionary Work," and ne made an effective talk.

Dick Edwards, the moonshiner who was captured by Captain Ware near Jng Tavern last Saturday night, was carried before Judge Gaston, United States commissioner yesterday. He was bound over in the sum of $300, and went to jail in default.

The revival meetings conducted by Rev. Walker Lewis are meeting with signal success, there being a large attendance at each meeting. There are two meetings each day, the first commencing at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and the second beginning at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

The complimentary scientific exhibition to be given by Mr. Dan J. Canary, who is the champion trick cyclist of the world, on a Victor safety, promises to be a revelation to the local wheelmen. The exhibition is a free one and will take place at the Gate City Guard's armory. All wheelmen and their friends are invited, and tickets of invitation, which insure entrance, can be secured at Beck & Greegy's hardware store.

Mrs. George S. May and the Misses May left last night for Pennsylvania in obedience to a telegram announcing the serious illness of relatives. The length of their absence cannot be told just now.

Mr. Ernest Morgan, so well known to the numerous visitors at Cumberland Island in the summer, and the Oglethorpe, Brunswick, Ga., in the winter, goes to Chicago on May 1st to take charge of the office of Hotel Ingram, under the management of Mr. Warren Leland, Jr. It is unnecessary to say that he will be greatly missed in Georgia. He has always been extremely popular among the visitors of these well-known resorts. The Hotel Ingram is located on Sixtieth street and Washington avenue, facing the Midway plaisance, and eventy feet from the world's fair entrance, Chicago, Ill. This magnificent new hotel structure containing every known convenience for the comfort and enjoyment of world's fair visitors, has 400 rooms in the main building and 500 rooms in the buildings adjoining and in the immediate vicinity.

Immedately opposite the hotel is the grand entrance of the exposition, from which radiate avenues leading to all the prominent features of the fair.

It has been determined definitely that three men are in the mine. They are Thomas Hudson, W. L. Treenbath and Richard Williams. The latter is dead beyond a doubt. There is a faint possibility that the two others may be rescued alive. Although several of the men rescued this afternoon are suffering from broken arms, dislocated shoulders and minor bruises, the injuries are not considered dangerous.

The lecture tonight of Dr. T. H. Huzza at hte rooms of the railroad department of the Young Men's Christian Association on "Shocks, Burns, Scalds, etc.," will be of special value to railroad shop men, as they are peculiarly liable to such accidents. The subject will be none the less interesting to men in road service. Many a man dies from shock, when, if proper means and methods, such as any intelligent person could use, were adopted life might be saved. There was a good attendance last Tuesday night to hear Dr. Nicolson, but the hall ought to have been filled. Let every man turn out tonight and receive this valuable instruction, without money and without price.

Mr. Baldwin, of the Baldwin-Melville company, now playing at DeGive's, hit upon the happy idea of giving away a season ticket to the ball park, and last night the first ticket was won by Mr. C. A. McCue. Every one who buys a ticket to the show gets a number and the holder of the lucky number gets either, $15 in money or the season ticket. The winner last night had his choice between the two and took the season ticket rather the two and took the season ticket rather than the $15. This afternoon at the matinee when "Michael Strogoff" will be presented a fine diess pattern will be given to the one holding the winning number, and tonight when "The Passion Slave" is given another season ticket or $15 will be given out

SOUTH SIDE IMPROVEMENTS.

The Residents of the Second Ward Feel That They Have Been Neglected. A committee representing the south side will appear before the county commissioners tomorrow and appeal for some improvements. The residents of that side feel that they have been neglected and that other sections of the city have received attention at the expense. They want streets opened out to the park which will really be of benefit to the whole city in opening up ways for the people to reach Atlanta's great resort.

THE DEATH OF MR. SPETH.

best of medical skill, he succumbed to the disease at last.

Soon after the establishment of the experiment station Mr. Speth was elected to the position of horticulturist, which he has since held. He was much interested in the fruit development of this section, and has for a long while been president of the Middle Georgia Horticultural Society.

Mr. Speth was a native of Germany, where he was educated at the best schools of the empire. He studied four years at Wurtemberg Medical college, where he took an excellent course in medicine, afterwards serving as an apprentice both in Germany and France. He came to this country at the beginning of the war and conducted a large drug business in New York until his health forced him to come south in 1879. He settled at Angusta, where he lived until he moved to Griffin to assume his position at the experiment station.

He leaves a large family and many friends to regret his untimely end.

Amid Mr. Speth's checkered life of varied experiences and interesting incidents there is a pretty little romance of how he met his wife. He was a surgeon on board a ship on the Atlantic, on which a young lady coming to America from Bingen needed his attention. His tender thoughtfulness touched her heart and her noble charms attracted him. A mutual attachment began, which ended in a happy

WEATHER SYNOPSIS AND FORECAST.

This week has started in warm over the whole country. Last night it was generally warmer, by ten to fifteen degrees, than the average for this season of the year at all points east of the Rockies. The coldest reported yesterday after 7 o'clock a. m. was the temperature of 40 degrees at Bismarck, N. D., and Huron. S. D. The warmest during the day was 90 degrees at Abilene, and San Antonio, Tex.

Some scattered showers dell in the Mississippi valley and to the eastward yesterday. They were generally light and confined mostly to the states in the lake region and those near the Atlantic coast.

The outlook for today is that the weather will continue warm over the most of the country and that showers are probable in the north Atlantic coast region.

For Georgia today: Fair; continued warm.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.-Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

AT WHOLESALE BY THE TRADE GENERALLY.

Anson and His Kids Were Not in the Game with the Veterans of Atlanta.

BUT THE GAME WAS A GOOD ONE,

And a Good Crowd Was Out to See the Men Work—The Outfield Did Well.
The Colts Mades Fine Impression.

The Atlantas turned the tables on Chicagos yesterday afternoon and beat them out in fine shape. In fact Anson and his gang were not in the game with Murray and his players from the very start. The Atlantians played all around the visitors from the first ball to the last. Murray presented his usual combination with Keenan as the twirler and Murphy as the receiver of the twisting and cyclonic curves, while Anson put to the front the best team he can show when he is out of It was twelve men Anson had in the game before the end came, and if he had presented more the chances are that he would have met with a more pronounced defeat than the one he received. Camp was the first man up and he opened the fun with a clean base hit. That hit was followed before the game was over with ten more like it and the ten were made on the best pitchers Chicago has on the trip. Every member of the Atlanta team the trip. Every member of the Atlanta team prayed a jam up game and the chances are the defeat Anson and his pupils got would have been worse and not the Atlantas grown tired of running the bases.

Mcbill opened the work from the pitcher's standpoint for the visitors and did well for the first three hirst pid heen made off lieved after three hits had been made o of him. McGinnis was put in McGill's piace and was treated just as hospitably by the Atlanta sluggers. He gave up the same number of nits in the same number of immigs and was then led to the bench and Al Mauck's halter was untied and he was brought out. But Mauck was no bet-ter than either of his predecessors. In fact he was not as good, and in the last three innings was touched up for five of the hits the Atlantas secured. Letcher's playing in right field was especially fine. while the work of Lally was good in lett.

Ely, as short, made some of the prettiest plays seen on the grounds this season, but marred his good work by two ughy errors.
Camp, at third, was bright at times and Camp, at third, was bright at times and then again played stupidly. But those who were watching him closely feel satisfied that he can do good work and that his errors of the game were the result of want of practice. Lally was good both in the field and at the bat, while the work Conners put up has never been duplicated on the Atlanta grounds. Without making a hit he secured four runs and had four of the twenty-seven put-outs besides an assist. With two hits Murray got in three of the runs, and on the bases showed some of the best work ever seen in Atlanta. Murphy's catching was as good as any one would want to work ever seen in Atlanta. Murphy's catching was as good as any one would want to see. He was simply great behind the bat, and made himself more friends than he had been able to acquire before the game began. Keenan took no hand in the hitting but his fielding was excellent, while his control of the ball and his speed were something wonderful.

McGill showed up better than either of the other pitchers Chicago put up. He showed the stuff there is in him and made a most favorable impression upon those who saw him. Kittridge behind the bat was the saw him. Kittridge behind the bat was the same steady, reliable man he has always been and demonstrated conclusively that he is yet in his prime as a ball player. Decker was especially good on first, but did not do any litting. Dalleen's shortstop work was fine and he showed up handy with the stick, usually producing a base-hit when one was needed.

The Baltimores Will Be Here on the 5th.

Hanlon and his Baltimore team will be in Atlanta on the 5th of the month and will meet the Chicagos.

Wadsworth, Atlanta's last year star twirler, will be found wearing a Baltimore uniform and will be given a great reception by his old friends here.

An effort is now being made to have three teams take part in the game instead of two. The idea is to let the Chicagos play the first four or five innings with the Baltimores and then giva way to the Atlantas, who will take the game up just where Anson and his men leave off. The arrangement has not been perfected yet, but the chances are that it will be completed in a day or two. It would be something new in the baseball world.

A Good Game in Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—Savannah gave Cleveland a close shave today, the score being 5 to 4. It was a thoroughly good game, one of the best thus far, and was tors.

The features of the game were Jameson's pitching for Savannah and Shellerman and heartily enjoyed by a large crowd of specta-Hastings for Cleveland, and brilliant field work on both sides. Both teams played with much spirit. The game was won in the ninth inning by Cleveland, through a hit by Zimmer. a stolen base and Child's hit to right field. Cleveland showed by its playing today that they are getting into first-class shape. Savannah also showed up in fine form, putting up the best game so far. The Cleveland's base running was much admired. Interest is steadily increasing in the game here.

NEXT MEMORIAL DAY.

It Will Be as Unusually Impressive One in

The Fulton county confederate veterans held an important meeting last night.

The memorial exercises in honor of Generals Beauregard and E. Kirby Smith were postponed till the regular annual meeting of the association, which is to be on the third Monday of this month.

At that meeting will also be the election

Monday of this month.

At that meeting will also be the election of officers of the association for another year, and the reports of the officers of the past term.

This election will be interesting and important for the reason that Colonel W. L. Calhoun, who has been president of the association for the past four terms, gave no tice last night to the members that he will not accept re-election this year.

Last year Colonel Calhoun made the same announcement, for he had then made up his mind to retire from the presidency, but in spite of his announcement he was re-elected, and was induced to accept it against his wishes. Last night he declared that he was forced to decline to allow his name to be presented this year for re-election for the reason that his duties as ordinary of the county were increasing and were already such as compelled him to give the association less attention than he would like to give it as the president.

It was received with genuine regret by the members, but Colonel Calhoun will certainly retire this year, he says. He has made a splendid presiding officer for the veterans and they have the utmost admiration and respect for him and gratitude for his services all this time.

Memorial Day Exercises.

Colonel Calhoun has communicated for an orator to represent the association on the occasion of Memorial Day this year, but nothing definite has been done yet in this respect further than correspondence.

It was decided by the meeting last night that the next Memorial Day exercises shall be fully in keeping with the exercises on previous days of this kind, and that the parade shall be equal to any ever seen in Atlanta. Of course, in this the local military companies will assist, as they have always done heretofore.

heretofore.

A resolution was passed at the meeting last night inviting all of the military and civic organizations of the city to participate in the exercises and the parade on Memorial Day.

A committee was appointed to arrange a programme of music for the day and to engage brass bands for the parade. The committee consists of General Evans, Major Stock and Dr. Amos Fox.

A resolution was passed requesting all veterans of the association to wear an appropriate badge on the day of memorial exercises.

They are cordially invited to attend individually or by associations.

associations.

A resolution was passed asking the governor to have the flag of Georgia run half mast that day.

The programme will be unusually interesting and will be made out at an early day. It is going to be an enjoyable and impressive day this year, indeed, and will be remembered a long time by young and old alike.

THE COMPANY NOT AT FAULT.

The Ladd Lime Company Relieved of Al The Ladd Lime Company Relieved of All Blame by the Coroner's Jury.

The Ladd Lime Company has been relieved of all blame in the matter of the explosion of dynamite which occurred in their works at Cartersville and cost the fives of four men. It appears that it is necessary to use dynamite in lime works, and the men at work evidently falled to take the necessary precautions in the use of that very dangerous explosive, and the result was something out of the ordinary.

The verdict of the coroner's jury was as follows:

rollows:

"We, the jury empaneled to enquire into the death of James Mayhew, Bub Jackson, Bedford Brown and William Murphy, find, that the cause of their death was the premature explosion of dynamite, cause unknown, and we are satisfied that it was purely accidental; no blame attached to any one. The governor is on a trip to investigate have made bids for the privilege of supply have made bids for the privilege or supplying drinkables to the state when the new dispensary law goes into effect July 1st.
"I will be gone several days and may get up to Milwaukee," he said. "I am going to make some examinations before making the final arrangements for the operation of the new liquor law."

The governor would not discuss politics. He said that he does not know what chances Gonzales has to get a place under the administration and the governor made the remark as though the editor would not got anything if he were making the or pointments.

YOTE ON THE BONDS

For the Waterworks Is What Council Wants the People to Do.

THE COUNCIL IN SESSION SO DECREES,

And in Addition to That Says the Electric Light Company Must Clean the Globes. Traction Company and the Bridge.

Atlanta will have an election for $182,000 of waterworks bonds on Tuesday, May 16th, next.

An ordinance providing for the election in all its details was adopted by the general council at a regular meeting yesterday

The new issue of bonds will not increase Atlanta's present bonded debt, as the bonds proposed are simply to take the place of $182,000 of bonds which have already been issued and sold.

Something over a year ago the city of Atlanta authorized the making of $182,-000 of waterworks bonds by the general 000 of waterworks bonds by the general council of 1892. In January last those bonds, which had been made and prepared by the general council of the year before, together with about $50,000 of redemption bonds, were placed on the market. The small edition of bonds was quickly taken at par by the American Trust and Banking Oempany and by the Capital City bank, while the big edition of $182,000 of waterworks bonds proper were sold to the same gentlemen, who resold them in New York. After the sale of the bonds, but before they had been paid for, an error was found in their construction. The law authorizing the issuing of the bonds gave them date of January 1, 1893. The 1st of January happened to fall on Sunday and as soon as that was ascertained the general council legislated so as to make general council legislated so as to make the bonds bear date of January 2d.

After the bonds were turned over to the purchasers in New York the attorneys for the buyers gave the laws of Georgia a thorough study and finally came to the conclusion that the bonds, while not illegal, were defective. The purchasers were not anxious, however, to back down from the trade, but notified the Atlantians that they would gladly take the bonds if the defect was corrected. That defect, it appears, was in the fact that the attorneys defect was corrected. That defect, it appears, was in the fact that the attorneys thought the people of Atlanta had not had proper and sufficient notice of the election before it came off. Mayor Goodwin and Gity Attorney Anderson held a conference with the finance committee of the general council and those who engaged in the conversation were of the opinion that the best way out of the meddle was to order another election and vote upon the bonds again.

Mr. Stockdell, chairman of the committee, was instructed to draw an ordinance providing for the election and have it ready for the meeting of the council Monday.

Mr. Stockdell chairman of the committee, was instructed to draw an ordinance providing for the election and have it ready for the meeting of the council Monday.

Mr. Stockdell carried out the request of his associates and when the general council came together yesterday he was on hand with the ordinance.

The paper was turned over to Clerk Woodward, who read it. It provides for an election on Tuesday, May 16, 1893, for one hundred and eighty-two bonds of $1,000 each, bearing date of June 1, 1893. The bonds by the ordinance are to run for thirty years and are to be paid in gold coin, bearing interest at the rate of 4 per cent, payable semi-annually in January and July. The bonds, the ordinance says, are to be sold at the best price attainable whether at par, below par or above par. After these bonds are issued the series of $182,000, which is now out, is to be taken up and canceled.

It provides for a special registration for the election and says the books must be opened from April 5th and run until May 11th. It then designates those who can vote and provides for the publication of the ordinance for thirty days.

After the ordinance had been read Mr. Stockdell related the conversations and correspondence which had passed between the purchasers of the bonds and the city of Atlanta. He declared that there was no real evidence of illegality in the bonds, but thought it would be better for Atlanta's credit no real evidence of illegality in the bonds, but thought it would be better for Atlanta's credit to relieve the bonds of any suspicion of illegality.

The ordinance was then placed on its second reading and was adopted without a dissenting vote.

second reading and was adopted without a dissenting vote.

A communication was received from Captain James W. Honglish and Hon. Jacob Haas calling attention to the bonds they bought from the city and asking to have the purchase they then made canceled and the money they paid in returned upon the surrender to the city of the bonds.

A resolution by Mr. Stockdell, complying with the request was adopted.

He was Reauppointed Corportroller.

He Was Reappointed Comptroller. Mayor Goodwin sent in a letter naming Mr. J. H. Goldsmith as comptroller for the next two years, and asking the general council to confirm the nomination.

"I move," said Mr. Northen, "that the nomination be confirmed. Mr. Goldsmith has made a splendid officer and should receive the nomination and the confirmation which I know is coming."

The roll call gavelevery one of the votes to Mr. Goldsmith.

He Wants One Hundred Dollars. Mr. Henry McDaniel, the well known civil engineer, sent in a letter asking the general council to appropriate $100 for the work he has done in preparing plans for the new Alabama street extension. In his letter Mr. McDaniel took occasion to say the work was moving along slowly and that more ginger should be injected into it. His letter was an indirect criticism of others who are in charge of the matter.

He Will Go to Law

He Will Go to Law.

Mr. Will Maher, the contractor on the Forsyth street bridge, presented a letter informing the general council that he would not go on with the work on the bridge, notwithstanding the demands of the general council. With the letter he presented a bill for extra work he claims to have done and the bill of extras amounted to $7.196.40. In his letter Mr. Maher declared that the controversy between him and the city was one the courts might settle.

Mr. Hirsch, chairman of the bridge committee, presented a report on the paper which had been in his hands for some days touching the matter, and in that report the committee said the work would be carried on and paid for out of the money the city now owes Mr. Maher, the contractor. The report of the committee was adopted. He Will Go to Law.

Over the New Bridge.

The committee on electric and other railways, Mr. Peters chairman, presented a report allowing the Atlanta Traction Company to cross the Forsyth street bridge upon the payment to the city annually of $700. The railroad company is to pay the city the money quarterly, and is to give a bond in the sum of $2,000 for the faithful carrying out of the contract. The contract is full and complete and in it the city reserves the right to allow any other railroad company to use the tracks. The report of the committee was adopted.

The comptroller's report showed the unexpended apportionments to be $1,817,631.55. Over the New Bridge.

The Atlanta Real Estate Company asked for a sewer on Washington street.

J. E. Little asked for a retail liquor license at 14 Decatur street.

W. T. Rodgers wanted a retail beer license at 26 West Peters street.

W. D. Grant and others asked for a sewer on Glenn to Whitehall street.

The Atlanta Street Rairoad Company asked for permission to use Fair, Fort, Tanner and Hilliard streets in the construction of an electric line.

the Boulevard and Irwin street changed to Aubern avenue.
Residents on Butler street asked for belgian blocks on that street.
Building Permits Granted.
The fire department committee, Mr. Colvin chairman, recommended that building permits be granted Gottleib & Sinkovitz, 142 Decatur street; Elseman & Co., corner Marietta and Foundry street; M. F. Holland, 91 Walton street; G. W. Adair, agent, 176 Decatur street; John Silvey, 6 and 8 Decatur street; M. C. Kiser, 91 North Pryor street. All of the recommendations were granted.

Bootblacks Must Register.

Bootblacks Must Register Mr. Hill, of the ordinance committee, presented an ordinance requiring all bootblacks to register with the chief of police, by whom they should be assigned a stand. The ordinance provided for a penalty which will fill the city stockade with small negroes if the new law is violated:

Mr. Renesu's Bicycle Ordina

Mr. Renesu's Bicycle Ordinance.

Mr. Hill, chairman of the ordinance committee, reported an ordinance in accordance with the one introduced at the last meeting by Mr. Reneau relative to hicycle riding. The ordinance made it unlawful for any one to ride a bicycle or a tricycle on the sidewalk or to run over the streets on roller skates.

"Well, I move," said Mr. Stockdell, "to table that paper. Little children who are amusing themselves on tricycles cannot go into the streets, for it is too dangerous. I see no reason why men who ride bicycles shouldn't be made to ride in the streets."

Mr. Meador thought that the roller skating on the asphalt on Peachtree and the riding of tricycles on the streets by children was dangerous.

ing of the ashmit on reacted to the condition of tricycles on the streets by children was dangerous.

"I have never ridden a bicycle," said Mr. Beatie, "but I have three members of my family who do, and they all assure me that it is only a question of time when I will be mounting one of them. They are rapidly coming into favor, and I think the most essential thing we can do in the way of legislation is to regulate the speed. Six miles an hour is fast enough for them to go. That pace beats the buggy horse I have had for the last twenty years, and ought to be fast enough for any one. Only a short time ago a prominent minister in Washington, D. C. was killed by being run over by one of the machines, and I finink the speed should be regulated. I would suggest that the ordinance be referred to the ordinance committee,"

The ordinance was again sent back to the

To Change the Name of Thompson Street. Mr. Hill presented an ordinance changing the name of Thompson street to Manchester avenue. The ordinance was the response to a petition of the residents of the city to have the name changed from Thompson street.

Mr. Stockdell objected to the name suggested.

Mr. Stockdell objected to the name suggested.

"Oh, well, let's compromise and make it Cleveland avenue," said Mr. Colvin.

"Why not call it Tammany lane?" said Mr. Harralson.

"That'll suit me," said Mr. Colvin.

Mr. Beatie opposed the change in the name, declaring that the street had been named for one of Atlanta's most prominent men who had long since gone to his last rest.

Palm street was substituted for Manchester avenue and the ordinance was adopted, but before the meeting adjourned notice was given that a motion would be made to reconsider the matter at the next meeting of the general council.

A retail liquor license was granted W. E. Bates on, Alabama street. Beer licenses were granted Thomas Nunan at 257 Mangum street, and to S. C. Henley at 595 Marietta street.

More Sewers.

Ordinances were adopted placing sewers along Washington street from Bass to Connolly at a cost of $2,050.

Ordinances were presented by Mr. Peters, chairman of the sewer committee, and read the first time authorizing the construction of sewers along and in Lyons avenue at a cost of $850; along and in Piedmont avenue at a cost of $1,400; along and in Hunter street at a cost of $522; along and in Cherry street at a cost of $350.

Balgian Blocks Again.

a cost of $350.

Belgian Blocks Again.

Belgian blocks were ordered on Currier street at a cost of $5,100, and on Fair street at a cost of $21,000.

Mr. Reneau presented a resolution authorizing the city engineer to go ahead with work on the McDaniel street bridge at a cost of $500, the money to be paid by the railroad company.

company. The Grady Hospital. Mr. Martin presented a resolution instruct-ing the Grady hospital officers to make daily returns of money collected to the comp-

Mr. Hirsch was on his feet in an instant and declared that he knew such a thing could not be done. He declared that the general council had nothing to do with the Grady hospital. The council had elected a board of trustees and laid down the laws under which it should be worked, and that under which it should be worked, and that ended the matter.

Mr. Meador thought the law should be changed or that the hospital officers should comply with it.

So did Mr. Rice and Mr. Martin.

The matter was referred to the board of trustees of the hospital.

After the Telegraph Companies.

After the Telegraph Companies.

Mr. Reneau presented an ordinance requiring all the telegraph companies in the city to pay a license tax on every pole of $4 in the corporate limits. It was referred to the tax committee.

Mr. Martin presented a resolution calling attention to Luckie street and other streets over which the Chattahoochee river road runs, and 'requiring that road to put the streets in good condition. It was referred to the street committee.

Mr. Stockdell presented a resolution allowing a discount of 2 per cent on all money paid into the city in the way of taxes during the month of May.

After the Electric Light People.

After the Electric Light People Mr. Rice presented a resolution in which he recited the fact that there was a contract between the city and the Georgia Electric-Light Company, and the further fact that all the big globes were dirty, and declaring that the dirt in the globes made the light lose from 10 to 15 per cent of its power. The resolution called upon the company to clean the globes or to forfeit $500. It was adopted.

Hunting for a New Home. Mr. Stockdell presented a resolution directing the committee on public buildings and grounds to look for a location for new offices in which the business of the city could be transacted.

A Heavy Blow to the Town and Its People—The Fire Was of Incendiary Or-igin—The Net Loss Over $18,000.

Carrollton, Ga., April 3 .- (Special.)-Forked togued flames got in their work in Carrollen this morning and today twentyarriogs of years lie in ashes, or have gone off into air in smoke. Eighteen houses, most of them business houses, are wiped from the face of our fair city and nothing remains today but smouldering ruins in their stead. All the business houses, with one exception, in the southwest portion of our beautiful square have succumbed to the flames and a half dozen on the north side of Newnan street are gone in the same way.

The fire was discovered in the rear par of Dr. M. P. Watkin's drug store and also In the rear part of J. H. Harris's 10 cent store about the same time—just about 12 o'clock this morning. Both houses were wooden buildings and were situated in the midst of a dozen more and all were licked up by the flames in a short time.

From these wooden buildings the flames were communicated to others on the other side of the street and very soon eighteen houses were completely destroyed by the flames.

It was with great difficulty that the Methbdist church, the jail, Burns & West's fine brick block, J. N. Pope's store and the alliance store were saved.

The fire was of incendiary origin. It was first discovered by City Councilman John N. Crider, Olin Perdue and Poke Laws. These men say the back doors of Harris's grocery store and Watkin's drug store were saturated with oil and that a couple of buckets of water would have extinguished both flames at the time they reached the spot if they had had them at hand.

The Loss, Where It Fell. It took only one hour for Carrollton to lose $16,000. The Carroll County Times owned by A. B. Fitts and leased to A. E. Nix, was burned, together with nearly all the newspaper outfit. The loss is about $2,000 with no insurance.

HEARD COUNTY COURT.

A Case with a History-Other Matters of General Interest. Carrollton, Ga., April 3 .- (Special.)-The late term of Heard superior court has been quite interesting. There were more old moss-back cases tried at this term than there have been for the past ten years.

One of the most noted cases was a criminal case. It was the state vs. Wiley Lee, charged with shooting at A. B. Perkason about a year ago.

This case and the alleged scandal that led to this case have caused more comment than any case ever tried in this county. There had been considerable talk about Wiley Lee and a kinslady of some of the Perkasons, and Lee waylaid the road about a year ago and shot at A. B. Perkason. A regular battle between Lee and Perkason. was the result, in which both were badly shot.

In all nearly $100,000 worth of suits have grown out of this affair. Several cases have been in the supreme court of the state and several cases are pending there now. Lee was found guilty and fined $100. Several damage suits are to be tried yet. Able counsel has been employed in the cases. Judge W. C. Adamson, of Carrollton, represents the Perkasons, and Hon. P. The crazy woman, Amanda Zellars, who is charged with setting fire to J. M. Amanda will be tried for lunacy and if convicted sent to the asylum.

A Mocking tird Saved Their Lives.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Crusteed, of Tallapoosa, was destroyed a few mornings ago by fire. The fire was discovered about 3 o'clock in the morning. The man and his wife were asleep in their home and it is said would have been burned up had it not been for the vigorous singing of their mocking bird, which was in its cage on the plazzs.

She Opposed Public Schools. Hon, M. R. Russell tells an amusing story about his trials in taking the school sensus of this county. He says he went to a house and the husband was on the farm and he had to enquire of the wife about her children in school age. The wife asked what was his business, and Mr. Russell sold her he was taking the school census. "If that's your business," said the lady "you can go on, for I'll die before you can take my children!" After this plain talk the lady went back into her house

HARALSON FRUIT GROWERS.

They Held an Interesting Session at Tallaposa on Saturday.

Carrollton, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—The Fruit Growers' Association of Haralson county held a meeting at Tallaposa Saturday in the interest of fruit raising in Carroll and Haralson counties. Quite a large number of these tillers of the soil were present and discussed methods that will enable them to sell their fruit and the proper remedy to keep grapes from rot or proper remedy to keep grapes from rot or to preserve apple trees. A better camate and a better soil does not exist in the United States for apples

A better climate and a better soil does not exist in the United States for apples and grapes, than these two counties, more especially the northern part of Carroll and the southern part of Haralson.

The apple raising of this section has grown to large proportions. Farmers make more from their apple crop than they do from any other they can raise. A number of the farmers of this section have very large orchards of apple trees and many more are planting out orchards as opportunity presents itself. One season Dr. W. F. Golden, ex-state senator from the thirty-eighth district, whose home is at Draketown, in the western part of Haralson country, planted out sixty acres in golden apples, and he had already a large orchard and still continues to plant out trees every season. The golden apple and the Shockley apple are both winter apples and are free from rot. This is the principal apple raised in this section. In the fall season of the year thousands of wagon loads of these apples are carried to such towns as Columbus, LaGrange and Albany and vended out by the dozen, peck and bushel, and some times by the wagon load. They sell at 5 and 10 cents per dozen, and from 50 cents to $1.50 per bushel. In ten years more the apple raising of this section will be a big thing for the planters and will revolutionize the farming business in this county.

Grape culture, if anything, is growing county.

Grape culture, if anything, is growing faster than the growing of apples. Nearly every farmer in the above section has planted out a small vineyard, and some few make as much as twenty-five hundred gallons of wine yearly. The grape business is growing lively and means something for the farmers.

The Hygienic Treatment of Const pation The Hygienic Treatment of Const pation and Ordinary Dyspepsia.

Sir John Andrews, the English professor, believes that in the vast majority of cases constipation may be successfully overcome by taking a teaspoonful of the genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salt dissolved in a tumblerful of water (half a pint), cold or hot, early in the morning, and, if necessary, on going to bed.

THE COOK RESIDENCE.

No. 313 on Peachtree Street.

This elegant 10-room house is new and has all of the late improvements to make house-keeping a pleasure. Hot and cold water closets, bath rooms, gas and electricity, finnished in beautiful hard wood. This is justly regarded as the most desirable part of Peachtree. Being just north of the Peachtree junction at Baker street, you can either walk into the city or ride upon the electric cars. Then, when you wish a pleasant drive, the smooth polished asphalt is before your door, extending north and south for blocks away. Stables, carriage house and everything necessary to make this a perfect home are all ready for use. As far as the eye can reach magnificent buildings containing delightful neighbors, greet you. There is literally nothing objectionable to be found in this locality. This lot extends from Peachtree to Ivy street, furnishing easy access to the premises from both streets. The house is unusually well built; none but the best material was allowed to go into the building. It was intended for a permanent home for the owner, but death places it upon the market to the highest bidder. Wednesday, April 12th, at 4:30 c'lock. Terms, one-third cash, balance on time. The sale will be absolute.

Elegant Juniper St. Lots.

Here is a rare opportunity to buy a choice residence lot for a gentleman's home. The county commissioners, in their great desire to serve the county where the demand is greatest, have ordered Juniper street opened up at once to Blakely avenue. Nearly every available lot has been picked up on Peachtree and Piedmont avenue, hence the rush for Juniper, which is just between the two. This beautiful street having so recently been put in attractive shape, you are bound to receive an immense benefit by buying now before Peachtree prices are reached. Two years from now you would scarcely be able to buy one of these valuable lots for twice what you pay now.

The best lots are enhancing every day. Atlanta is just in her infancy. Great projects are on foot for this year by capitalists that know what they are doing that will swell the population by the thousands. Scores of men are growing rich annually by investing in Atlanta dirt. Did you ever hear of any one losing a dollar in a judicious investment in Atlanta real estate?

This Sale Will Be Absolute.

Every lot offered will be sold to the highest bidder. Go out and inspect the property and select your lot before the sale. This kind of choice real estate is exceedingly scarce. Now is your chance to secure a magnificent site for small money; later you will certainly pay more. A few years back lots that could have been had for $75 per front foot on Peachtree are now in demand at from $150 to $200 per foot, and thus it will continue. The wise man will buy now; you can't make an investment that will pay better or more certainly. We offer exceedingly liberal terms; one-third cash, balance one, two and three years, 7 per cent balance one, two and three years, 7 per cer interest. Call at my office for plats. H. L. Tuesday, April 4th, 1893, 12 O'clock.

Here is the chance of a life time to buy a piece of strictly central property absolutely at your own price. "A gem of the purest ray serene." The cream of "Atlanta dirt." As there is but one Atlanta so there is but one Whitehall street. Situated as it is upon the main business street, the Broadway of our city, the center of trade and travel, it makes it especially desirable. Suitable for any class of business, wholesale or retail. The business center is gradually going out whitehall. It is just the place for a mammoth dry goods establishment or a magnificent office building. There is always a great demand for storerooms on Whitehall, and a lease could be effected for a term of years before the building is started, which would pay a handsome per cent on the amount invested.

There is no better or more safe investment than on Atlanta central property. Sure to be rented and certain of an increase in value.

Two Large Ponce de Leon Lots AT AUCTION,

Thursday, April 6, 1893,

Thursday, April 6, 1893,

3 O'CLOCK P. M., ON THE PREMISES.
These lots, for position and situation, are not excelled on any of the thoroughfares of Atlanta. Ponce de Leon Circle is fast becoming the Fifth avenue of Atlanta. All conveniences, paved streets, water and sewer being put down, three electric car lines at your door. The Boulevard is already second to no street in Atlanta. The Boulevard lots lay just outside the city limits, but have paved streets and electric car lines, assuring you the last car at hight and first in the morning as they go to and from the plant. With neighbors such as C. R. Haskins, T. P. Averill. James Millighan, C. R. Snider, Colonel Roberts, et al.

The property is sold because the owner has immediate need for money and has authorized us to sell these seven lots without reserve. Now, why pay rent when you can get such lots at your prices. First-class building lots on the fashionable streets of north Atlanta are getting scarce, and as the city grows will get more so, and Atlanta with her present system of railroads and the several others that are knocking for admittance, is the greatest railroad center in the south, and like a ball of snow, as she rolls she grows.

Take a plat, ride out and get the fresh air as it sweeps over this property from the mountains in view, hear the music of the singing birds, make your selection, and be on hand at the saile.

Terms, one-fourth cash, balañce 6, 12 and 18 months, with 8 per cent interest.

DR. FOX SAYS

That Major J. M. Couper's Name Does Not Appear on the Tax Books.

EXCEPT AS PAYING $1 THIS YEAR.

Dr. Fox's Friends Search the State and County Records, and Say That His Name Cannot Be Found.

The citizenship of Major James M. Couper is going to figure in the contest for the Atlanta postmastership.

For some time it has been stated that Major Couper is not a citizen of Atlanta or has not been for any length of time. Last Saturday this appeared in The

The point has been made by Dr. Fox's friends that Major Couper is not a citizen of Atlanta, or if a sitizen, has become so within a short time.

Yesterday morning Major Couper published a card in The Constitution, and in the card said:

I have claimed citizenship in this city and county since then (ten years ago when he built the first residence on Ponce de Leon avenue.) I have paid my taxes here as a resident, and I have my receipts for the same. I not only voted for Mr. Cieveland and the straight democratic ticket but have never cast a vote in any other place since leaving Remarket. I have claimed citizenship in this city and

This was a denial by Major Couper, and Dr. Fox's friends went to the records to see when he paid his taxes. Speaking of the result of the search yesterday, Dr. Fox said:

"Major Couper's name appears on Andy Stewart's books only once. He paid $1 January 3, 1893, for poll tax for 1892. For three years prior to that his name does not appear on the records as making returns or paying taxes. The property where he resides in the city, on Ponce de Leon avenue, is returnèd by Mrs. Couper, but the major's name is there only the one time, and that last January. A search of the digest in the comptroller general's office, at the capitol, fails to show that Major Couper has made any returns from McIntosh or Glynn counties during recent years. His name is not down there as paying poll tax of late. If he has paid all taxes as required of him, the records do not show it.'

Major Couper stated to a Constitution reporter that he has the receipts. Dr. Fox's friends point to the books

"Please show us the evidence? Here is the record and it does not show it."

That Major Couper is a resident of Atlanta they do not dispute, but they do take issue with the claim that he is a citizen, which they say implies that he has paid all taxes required of him. The property on the avenue was returned at $10,000 for several years, but the last seturn is for $3,333, indicating that some of it had been sold.

"Major Couper may be a resident of Atlanta as he claims, but unless he has paid his taxes he is not a citizen entitled to vote," said one of Dr. Fox's friends. "I do not understand how he could vote last fall unless he had paid all his poll tax up to that time, and there is no re-

Dr. Fox has not sent off any more batches of letters for a week or so. He got bundreds of them and made them up packages of 600 and forwarded them to Washington.

Colonel Livingston left for Washington last night. He will stay more than a few days he said. He has several postoffices in the district to look after. Some of them are about to expire, and the congressman is going to press the names of democrats for the places. He will inquire when action will probably on the Atlanta postoffice, but he does not think it will be for some time.

The Result of Merit.

When anything stands a test of fifty years among a discriminating people like the Americans, it is pretty good evidence that there is merit somewhere. The value of a medicine is best proved by its continued use from year to year by the same persons and families, as well as by a steady increasing sale. Few, if any, medicines have met with such continued success and popularity as has marked the introduction and progress of BRANDRETH'S PILLS, which, after a trial of over fifty years, are conceded to be the safest and most effective purgative and blood purifier introduced to the public.

That this is the result of merit, and that BRANDRETH'S PILLS actually perform all that is claimed for them, is conclusively proved by the fact that those who regard them with the greatest favor are those who have used them the longest.

BRANDRETH'S PILLS are sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar fooated.

THE GOLDEN CHORD.

Which Once Held Fond Hearts in Common Bond.

NOW YERY SADLY STRAINED.

Colonel Ellis Relied on Mr. Hoke Smith and the Result Was That Mr. Joe James Was Successiul.

Above the music of the bands and the booming of the cannon which greet suc-cessful candidates returning from Washington comes the echo of the snap of the broken chord of a friendship once as strong as that which bound Damon to Pythias.

Prior to the time President Cleveland called from Atlanta a counselor to sit at his table round, there were no faster friends than the present secretary interior and the ex-president of the Cleveland Club of Fulton county.

And now there is a serious misunder standing and while reconciliation is hoped for, the sad fact remains that a thorough explanation has not been made yet. Time may smoothful everything, and it is trusted that it will, and that the past will be ed that it will, and that the past will be forgotten and forgiven.

The rupture grew out of the attorneyship of the Northern district. In the contest were Colonel Joe James, of Douglasville; Captain W. D. Ellis, of Atlanta; and Colonel Tinney Rucker, of Athens.

It was a long and a bitter fight and distorm family of the page of victory finally came to the man from Doug-Colonel Rucker became assistant. Mr. Hall, of Coweta, who was a candidate for assistant, was offered a position in the interior department. Captain Ellis came home and devotes himself to the practice of his profession.

A few months ago the outcome of the race was highly problematical. Colonel James got the endorsements of nearly all the Georgia delegation in congress.

Mr. Hoke Smith, who was regarded as a possible member of the cabinet, was counted on to give Captain Ellis a support that would simply make it impossible for Cleveland to appoint any one else. And besides, it was understood that Senator Gordon had promised to support Captain Ellis. In fact Senator Gordon suggested to Captain Ellis to enter the race. Finally Mr. Smith was called to the cabinet as the leading representative of the Cleveland element in Georgia.

Cleveland element in Georgia.

In the days immediately succeeding the inauguration the white house was visited daily by delegations of Georgians. Senator Gordon threw himself into the work of Gordon threw himself into the work of helping his friends with all the enthusiasm of his nature. He was on the go constantly and sometimes applicants could not keep up with him so hard did he rush. Indeed, Hou. Alf Herrington, of Emanuel, one day hired a carriage to get the senator's escort over to the white house and General Gordon was so busy with others that he and a number of them rode off in Mr. Herrington's carriage and forgot all about returning for him.

Captain Ellis was making more of a still hunt than his competitors. He went alone to see the attorney general and found that somebody had given him a splendid recommendation to Mr. Olney. General Gordon, in his impetuous way, threw his arms around Captain Ellis, declared that he loved him and once went so far as to arms around Captain Ellis, declared that he loved him and once went so far as to assure him that he would die for him—if necessary. He said he would not hurt his friend and would stick by him to the last ditch. Counting on the influence of the senator and the secretary of the interior, Captain Ellis felt safe. He has no sympathy for scrambling and was gratified to find that a candidacy can be made in a very genteel way.

to find that a candidacy can be made in a very gentee! way.

It was with a confident feeling that he came back home. He enjoys a superb practice and looked forward to a very pleasant term in office. He had not been in the race long when a letter came from Senator Gordon saying that he was compromised with another applicant and asking for a release from his pledge. Captain Ellis is not the man to embarrass a friend and he consented to the pledge being declared off. He to the pledge being declared off. He still had absolute faith in the influence of his friend, the secretary of the interior, who sits every day with the president discussing affairs of state.

To say that Captain Ellis was surprised one afternoon to read that President Cleve-land had nominated Colonel Joe James is one afternoon to read that President Cleveland had nominated Colonel Joe James is not half expressing the situation. And his friends here were more than surprised. They were sure that somebody had been discarded in the deal. They said that their friend had been sacrificed and what their friend had been sacrificed and what the fatal blow was struck by a hand which they had trusted as their right hand trusted their left. Now the friends of Captain Ellis say that he was traded off. He would not make a combination. The captain's friends talk freely and are severe in their criticisms. They say that they have lost faith in some things. They are sorry that their confidence in their fellow man has been shattered, but it is a fact, nevertheless. Captain Ellis himself, who is esteemed by every one of his fellow citizens, will not discuss the affair. He is hurt at some things which have recently occurred, but he does not want to parade his disappointment. He is no sorehead, he says, but he is engaged now in testing the consolations of philosophy.

MR. TOMMEY TALKS. He Denounces Mrs. Mitchell's Story as

False. Mr. A. P. Tommey is highly indignant at the stories set afloat by the woman, Mrs. Mitchell, who claims to have been drugged and abducted to Whitesburg.

It will be recollected that the woman was put off the train one Friday night at Whitesburg in an unconscious condition; that upon regaining her senses she claimed that the Monday before she had been at the residence of her brether-in-law, Mr. A. P. Tommey, in Atlanta, that while there she had been drugged, and that she remembered nothing more until she came to in Whitesburg, as stated. The motive which she gave as actuating these people was that they wished to secure possession of her lit-they wished to secure possession of her little girl, and that at that very moment they were in possession of her.

"That whole story is infamously false," said Mr. Tommey. "My wife is a sister of this woman's first husband, and the little child alluded to is her niece. As we regarded her as being unfit to have control of the child, she had been induced some time previous, by the execution of a paper before Judge Landrum, to give it over to the custody of its grandfather, and the child was in his possession at the time, but was being temporarily taken care of at my house, because of the prévalence of an infectious disease at the house of Mr. Mitchell. It was on Monday that Mrs. Mitchell came to my house and remained for dinner without an invitation, as she was not wanted. When dinner was over she departed and we heard nothing more of her until the publication of her famous trip to Whitesburg. If she had been drugged at my house on Monday, where was she between that time and the next Friday night when she turned up at the home of her mother? Surely she must have attracted attention during the four days which intervened between her visit to my house and her discovery on the train in Whitesburg on the Friday following. The whole matter is that the tale is trumped up by this woman and her relatives, and is infamously false in every part which refers to my wife. We do not associate with the woman, and would not own acquaintance with her on the street. I am ready to back these statements up in a way that will be very interesting to Mrs. Mitchell is she cares about taking up the gannilet." tle girl, and that at that very moment they

Prostrated by Paralysis, His Recovery Is | He Was in Atlanta Last Night Going to a Matter of Grave Doubt.

THE SYMPTOMS DROVE HIM TO DRINK,

And Caused the Hitherto Unaccountable Break - If He Lives, He Will Probably Be Reinstated.

Patrolman A. J. Whidby, who ill-timed spree last Friday two hours before election, secured his dismissal from the force, is lying paralyzed and in an almost dying condition at his home, 10 Connolly street. He was prostrated last Sunday afternoon by a paralytic stroke and has since been unable to speak and is in a terrible condition between life and death. Yesterday the stricken officer was visited by a large number of his former fellow officers, who number of his former fellow officers, who expressed their sincere sympathy for the almost dying man in his awful plight.

The announcement yesterday of Whidby's prostration by paralysis explains to many minds his hitherto inexplainable break in getting drunk last Friday. Whidby, according to the statement of a half dozen officers who saw him at the time, was considerably under the influence of liquor. In fact, he was so badly intoxicated that he had to be taken from duty and sent home. This fact, sworn to by three officers before the board of police commissioners, led to their refusal to re-elect Whidby as a member of the force, with which he had previously been connected eleven years.

When Whidby recovered from his unwise act of intemperance it was to learn that he had been summarily dropped from the police force. This knowledge had a dispairing effect upon the ex-patrolman, and he offered to his superiors an explanation, which, while it did not free him from blame, made his break much easier to forgive.

"Briday." Whidby told the officers, "I which, while it did not receim from blame, made his break much easier to forgive.

"Friday," Whidby told the officers, "I was in a terrible condition. My nerves were unstrung, and my head was racked with the worst sort of pains. For some time I had been sufferering from neuralgia, which gave me great trouble with my head, and Friday the attack was worse than it had been before. I went on duty Friday morning feeling very badly. I took some medicine for neuralgia which had the effect of throwing me off my balance."

He then described how miserable he had been during the morning. It seems that the medicine he had swallowed contained a strong opiate, and this, with two drinks of whisky he took, resulted in the humiliating experience which befell him about noon Friday.

It is now believed that Whidby's disordered state which led to his unaccountable break was but the indications of the severe nervous collapse which prostrated him yestorday. Anyway the attack followed very Miss Jones's Complete Programme for This Evening at Y. M. C. A. Hall. Evening at Y. M. C. A. Hall.

Miss Minnie Jones, the most capable interpreter of the beautiful Deisartean philosophy in this country, will this evening, at the Young Men's Christian Association hall, give an entertainment that will not only delight the people, but will be of great value to them. As a reader and recitationist Miss Jones has no superior in America.

The famous Von Weber quartet will furnish the music for the evening. Professor Case, of chautauqua fame, says of the quartet: "They are as fine as I have ever heard." He has shown his appreciation of their merit and has engaged them for the entire season of the chautauqua that is to be held in Atlanta this summer.

Abused the Officer.

A case was entered on the police docket yesterday afternoon against Mr. 1. S. Mitchell, the well known Whitehall street business man for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty.

The officer making the case was Patrolman Sigman, and he says that Mr. Mitchell roundly abused him, calling him, among other choice names, a "scoundrel." The affair grew out of the arrest on yesterday morning of Mr. Mitchell driver, Will Calhoun, Mr. Mitchell, it seems thought the case unjust and proceeded to give his opinion to that effect to the officer. The expression of opinion in the forcible style in which the batrolman says it was delivered led to the case being made against Mr. Mitchell. It will be tried this afternoon. Abused the Officer.

Office-Pleasant and Affable, He Wins Friends of Them All,

Speaker Crisp reached Atlanta at 4 o'clock on the vestibuled limited from Washington and was at the Kimball last hour last night.

last night the speaker talked freely about political affairs at the national capital and expressed pleasure and gratification as a southern democrat at the friendly recognition Georgia and the entire south is re-ceiving at the hands of the administration. He also is assured from the aspect things are assuming at the capital that nothing is going to be left undone by the party in power to so reform the machinery of the government as to insure a rule that will be beneficial to the country and the whole country. ington and elsewhere that there will be an extra session of congress," said Speaker

"I am glad of it, if it be true. I have always' been in favor of an extra session myself, and wanted to see it come right after the inauguration. Of course that is past now and out of the question, but I shall be glad if the president should call an extra ession early in September, or even earlier, for the purpose of getting things in shape for making a speedy reform in the tariff.

"You see we can get a good and satisfactory law passed by the end of this year if we meet in September, and send it to the senate after Christmas, and by this time next year we can have it safely landed be yond congress. This would give us plenty of time to get the law in full operation be fore the next election. It will take some time this way to get the benefits of the law realized by the people and when that is done the advantage of such reform will be a living reality, and the people fully en-joying it will proclaim the truth of democratic policy again at the next election, with even greater emphasis." "What about the silver question?" was Of Course.

The Orpheus Giee Club consists of fourteen male voices under the directorship of Mr. S. H. Cole. The Carlisle Banjo and Guitar Club consists of eight members, under director J. C. Carlisle. These clubs have been requested several times to give a concert by large numbers of their friends. This is the first time they have appeared in this capacity, though both have sung and played on many occasions for various church and other entertainments in the city during the past without charge for their services. They will be assisted on this occasion by the following well-known artists, who need no introduction to an Atlanta audience; Miss Alice C. McGill, mezzo soprano; Mr. Henry Howell, pianist; Mr. S. H. McAfee, solo euphonium, and the Atlanta Military band.

Tickets are now on sale at Miller's

The party is a unit for a more liberal currency, and the only differences among party leaders are such as might be termed varying opinions as to the best means of attaining the end in view. These are petty differences and do not mean anything. Something will be done, you may believe, to bring a better condition

ATLANTA GA., April 4, 1893.

The Gate City Bank Case. The quietus put upon the investigation of the affairs of the Gate City National bank-which was so sudden as to seem violent-has begun to attract the attention of the whole country. The Boston Advertiser devotes a leading editorial article to the subject, and presently the newspapers of the whole country will be launching forth in comment and criticism on a proceeding which has about it a sensational air of mystery.

It is inevitable that this should be so, and it is inevitable, too, that criticism, in endeavoring to sound the depths of the mystery, should strike hard at those who have nothing but misfortune to show as the result of their connection with the

The Constitution has made no serious effort to penetrate the mystery that seems to surround the sudden nause in the investigation, nor has it taken any stock in the multitude of rumors that the event has bred. What influence, civic or official, may have been brought to bear on the attorney general to urge him for ward in a proceeding so extraordinary The Constitution has made no effort to discover. It has recognized the fact that any attempt to cover up, to conceal or to divert the investigation from its natur course would prove to be utterly futile.

Nevertheless, while we have refrained from commenting on the episode, we have been keenly alive to the fact that I has created a painful impression in the public mind. given rise to rumors calculated to work injury to innocent persons, and created a cloud of suspicions in regard to the character of the influence brought to bear on the attorney general.

Naturally, a great many newspapers have eagerly seized an opportunity that fits itself so exactly to the dimensions of a sensation, and they have enlarged the facts and given all sorts of false rumors a credible shape. In the comment of The Roston Advertiser the bank officials are by inference, supposed to be extremely anxious to avoid an investigation. when, in point of fact, these officials have displayed an anxiety to probe the whole business to the bottom. From the first they have seemed anxious to discover the real cause and the whole extent of the misfortune that they are the victims of. Yet it is natural that the public mind, beating about in the dark and being unable to account for the sudden and mysterious pause given to the investigation. should seize upon and appropriate 'the wildest and most groundless rumors.

It is hardly credible that the investigation was stopped for the purpose of shielding any person or for covering up any fact essential to the administration of justice, for it must be apparent to the dullest mind that such an effort would not only prove futile, but that it would lend wings to suspicions difficult to overtake and correct. The truth hurts no innocent man, and it is not the business of justice to shield a guilty one.

The case of the Gate City National bank has reached a point where the interests of all concerned demand a thorough investigation-an investigation that will bring out all the facts, that will establish justice and that will satisfy the public. When we say the interests of all we include the interests of the people of Atlanta who are not to be regarded as mere curious spectators of the mysterious events that have marked the progress of the bank case. Their interests in the matter are intimate and substantial-we had almost said vital.

The investigation cannot be re until the 10th of April, to which day the grand jury was adjourned after receiving ions of the attorney generalhere is a formight's delay that The fact is stated in the report that well have been avoided, and it is more than 33 per cent of the debtor famhere is a forinight's delay that delay that bears heavily on this whole unity. There is about $400.000 ocked up in the vaults of the bank out of the reach of its owners. The money is lying there without interest. It constitutes the working capital of thousands of people in this community. It could be employed in paying millions of dollars worth of debt. Paid out to its owners, it would not only prove to be a relief to individuals, but this money, restored to circulation, would be of great benefit to the city.

We have seen no adequate explanation of the unfortunate delay that has already taken place; we do not expect to see any, but we can say to the attorney general (and we speak for the whole community) that he cannot better perform his duty than by promptly pushing the investiga tion to its legitimate end, not only that justice may be done, but that the money now unfortunately held up may be paid out to its rightful owners.

The County Bonds.

The action of the county commission ers in giving assurances as to what will be done in the event that the bonds are favorably voted upon by the people, will go a long way toward removing whatever doubt there was as to the issue of that election.

The Commercial Club made a happy be ginning in their work of usefulness in having brought out the people to make some expressions of their wishes in a matter of so much moment. The readiness of the members of the county commission to make known what would be their line of action, shows a respect for the wishes of the people which is sure to win for the membership backing which all public bodies ought to have.

Now, that the voters know exactly what to expect, they can approach the polls intelligently and act for the best interest of the county. The vote taken by the members of the Commercial Club, so nearly unanimous-with only one dissenting vote in a representative body of over one hundred of Atlanta's best men-would indicate that there is a strong probability of the bonds being passed.

The good beginning thus made by the commission, in coming into contact with the people, should be kept up until the end is reached. Care should be taken that the best result is had for the money; that the bonds are disposed of at the highest possible rates, such rates as a rich county like Fulton should be able to command; and that, at no stage, should a mistake be made. The gentlemen composing the county commission are men of honor and integrity, and their good judgment will be subjected to such a test in this matter that their successful passing through it will be an honor to be cherished the rest of their days.

The Constitution congratulates the Commercial Club and the county commission.

Our Farms, Homes and Mortgages. The statistics of debt and ownership in Georgia, as presented in the reports of the recent census, are attracting general attention on account of the reputation of our state for enterprise and progress.

From these statistics it appears that in 1890 there were in Georgia 352,059 families, of which 241,420, or 68.57 per cent hired their farms or homes, and 110,639, or 31.43 per cent, owned them. Of the owning families, 3,522, or 3.18 per cent, had farm or home incumbrances, and 107,117, or 96.82 per cent, had no incumbrances. The farm families numbered 175.688, or 49.90 per cent, of the total number of families. Of the farm families, 73,607, or 41.90 per cent, owned, and 102.081, or 58.10 per cent, hired the farms cultivated by them, while 2,491, or 3.38 per cent, had incumbrances on their farms, and 71.116, or 96.62 per cent, had no incumbrance. As compared with the year 1880 there was an apparent increase in farm tenancy from 44.85 per cent to 58.10 per cent, but the sources of the statistics for the two years were not the same, so that deductions of this kind have to be made with caution. There were in 1890 176,371 home families, constituting 50.10 per cent of the total number of families in the state. They were divided into classes as follows, viz: Hiring families, 139.339, or 79 per cent of the whole number of home families; owning families, 37,032, or 21 per cent; families owning free of incumbrance, 36.001, or 97.22 per cent of the total number owning, and families owning subject to incumbrance, 1,031, or 2.7s per cent of the owning families. It will be seen that our city homes are hired and incumbered to a greater degree than the country homes. The two are thus contrasted by a writer in Bradstreet's, who says: In the seven cities of the state having a population between 8,000 and 100,000 80.26 per cent of the home families hired and 19.74 per cent owned their homes; homes subject to in-cumbrances were occupied by 5.46 per cent of the owning families, and 94.54 per cent of the owning families had no home incumbrance. In the state outside of these cities 78.62 per cent of the home families hired and 21.38 per cent of the home tainines inter and cent of the home-owning families owned with umbrance and 97.97 per cent without in tate were incumbered by liens amounting to $2,749,254, of which $1,697,500 was on 2,491 farms and $1,051,754 on 1,031 homes. The value of the incumbered farms was $4,051,892, and that of the homes was $2,469,771, a total of $6,521,663. The ratios of debt to value were in the case of farms 41.89 per cent, and in the case of homes 42.59 per cent; for both, 42.16 per cent. The ratio of debt to value was less in the cities than in the stat cutside of the cities, being 39.59 per cent in the former case and 46.62 per cent in the lat-ter. The average owned and incumbered farm in the state was valued at $1,627, the average home at $2,306, and the average home in the cities at 3,188. The average farm incumbrance was $681, the average home incumbrance $1,020, and the average home incumbrance in the city $1.262

The principal rate of interest in the state in 1890 was 8 per cent, but higher rates were paid by 24.01 per cent of the farm debtor families on 19.65 per cent of the farm debt; by 10.38 per cent of the home debtor families on 5.89 per cent of the home debt, and in the seven cities by 5.17 per cent of the home debtor families, or 3.19 per cent of the home debt.

arred 87 per cent of th farm debt for the purpose of buying estate and making real estate in ments, and 67-71 per cent of the home debtor families incurred 57.90 per cent in the seven cities 79.10 per cent of the home debtors incurred 56.58 per cent of their debt for the purposes mentioned. The article quoted goes on to say:

The objects of real estate purchase and im provements, business and the purchase of per sonal property, when not complicated with other objects, led 39.74 per cent of the farm debtor families of the state to incur 44.87 pe home debt, and 94.16 per cent of the home debtor families to incur 86.46 per cent of the home debt, nd 94.16 per cent of the home home debt, nd 94.16 per cent of the nome debtor families in the seven cities to incur 92.33 per cent of the home debt. Farm and family expenses, standing alone are represented by 44 per cent of the farm debtor families of the state and 28.35 per cent of the farm debt femily expenses by 12.12 per cent of the home debtor families and 4.98 per cent of the home debtor families and 4.98 per cent of the home debt, and family expenses in the seven cities by 2.47 per cent of the home debtor families and 0.73 of 1 per cent of the home debt. The total interest charge on incum brances for one year was $224.327, of which $141.382 was on farms and $82,-945 on homes. The average interest charge was $57 on each farm, $80 on each home and $97 on each home in the seven cities. On farm loans the average rate of interest was 8.33 per cent, on home loans 7.89 per cent and on home loans in the seven cities 7.71 per cent.

Altogether, this is an encouraging showing, and it is worth preserving for future study and reference.

A Glance Backward-And Forward. Our esteemed contemporary, The Jonesboro News, recalls a chapter of the re cent past when it says:

After his nomination The Constitution did as much or more to secure Cleveland's election than any paper in the state. The Constitution may not desire recognition at .he hands of the administration but it should be given credit and appreciation of the good it did.

This brief paragraph is suggestive. It will cause many of our readers to rapidly review in their minds some of the notable features of the memorable presidential campaign of last year. When the national democracy made Mr. Cleveland the standard bearer of the party and announced the platform on which he would stand The Constitution loyally threw itself into the fight with the determination to strain every nerve in the effort to win. It cordially recognized Mr. Cleveland's great abilities and valuable services in the past, and emphasized the imperative necessity of electing him.

Fortunately, The Constitution reaches the classes, the voters and the states where its vigorous work was most needed. Its subscribers for the daily and weekly editions outnumber those of all the other Georgia dailies and the weekly editions of dailles combined. It is preeminently a newspaper for the people, and when it entered their homes with its demand for financial and tariff reform and its unanswerable arraignment of a republican force bill administration its arguments fell just where they would do the most good. The farmers throughout the south and southwest who had been listening to the third party orators saw that The Constitution pointed the way to victory and practical reform. They soon acknowledged the force of its ringing plea for a solid democratic south, and the result was a widespread revival of Jeffersonian democracy, and the effort to divide our councils and defeat us was a signal failure.

All this is a matter of history now, but it is well to bear it in mind-

After the battle was over and the new administration entered upon its duties The Constitution quietly devoted itself to its mission as a democratic newspaper. It has sought and will seek nothing from the administration. It has no favors to ask, and it makes no claim that anybody is under any obligations to it. It has simply endeavored to rise to the full height of the duty and the work which the party had the right to expect from every genuine democrat. For the present it desires nothing better than the satisfaction of knowing that it is keeping the pledges of the democratic party before the people and the administration and speeding the coming of the day that will see every promise of financial and tariff reform practically carried out, both in letter and in spirit. This is the situation and the people understand it, and their hearty appreciation is something that The Contitution is, and should be, proud

In the Matter of Organs.

There is, perhaps, nothing more amusing than the tortuous efforts of some of our esteemed confermoraries to know themselves and to be known as the personal organs of the administration. seems to be a tremendous struggle on the part of the most of them to place their performance on a level with their desires.

The anxious efforts of these ambitious brethren have no where been made more conspicuous than in the course of the discussion that has taken place in regard to an extra session of congress. This discussion was precipitated by The Constitution immediately after the election of Mr. Cleveland. We pointed out that it was not only due to the people that the pledges of the democratic platform should be redeemed as promptly as possible, but that it was in the nature of a party necessity that the question of tariff reform should be practically disposed of before the fall elections of 1894. As one of the results of that discussion it was hinted that Mr. Cleveland had not made up his mind. It was then that some of the brethren began to show a disposition to perspire. They wiped their marble brows and allowed the question to lie on the table. A few of the boldest remarked that the matter was one for consideration, and threatened to believe that an extra session would be a very good thing.

Then it was intimated that Mr. Cleve land was in favor of an extra session if congress could be induced to arrange the preliminary machinery for tariff reform and adjourn. The "if" was thought to settle the matter so far as Mr. Cleveland perative necessity" suddenly finaled in their horns and dropped the matter. But now, since the president has definitely announced that he will call an extra session in September, there is a revival of interest in the matter, and it is wonderful how many would-be organ are declaring that an extra session is the

All this is amusing, but It has its serious side. It falls far short of constituting the most beautiful spectacle in the world. We suppose that there never was a president who stood less in need of a personal organ than Mr. Cleveland. He has an independence of mind and a breadth of policy that would scorn the services of personal organship, and it is curious that the brethren who are falling over each other in their efforts to be "orgaus" do not perceive this substantial feature of his character.

The Constitution has no such narrow purpose as that of playing the part of a personal organ. It cannot undertake to engage in this sort of a performance. It is an organ, an organ of the democratic party and the democratic platform, but beyond that it cannot afford to go. In that direction, however, It proposes to go to the furthest limit, to the end that democratic principles and democratic policles may dominate and control this government for generations to come-

It is to be hoped that Colonel Fred Dis muke will have an opportunity to chase one more fox over the hills of Upson before the

Mr. Maxwell continues to "menace existence of the republic" by removing fourth-class postmasters. It ist useless for Editor Godkin to thump his plug bat over this business.

The attempt to make it appear that Tilman's followers are not democrats will hardly succeed with Mr. Cleveland.

Under Mr Cleveland's wise ruling both the "regular" and the "irregular" demo-crats of Texas will have a place at the lunch counter. This means harmony.

The St. Louis Republic says that "Geor gia has the demoralizing mania for spoils almost as badly as Massachusetts or New Jersey." It must be remembered, however, that Georgia has been deprived of the quota of offices that is rightfully hers, and Mr. Cleveland is making an effort to have her rights restored.

If the mugwumps happen to remember that Mr. Maxwell is merely a beginner, there will be no remedy for their despair

The fact that a government servant is "general hack"-a weasly, as it were-ha nothing whatever to do with the rights of Georgia in the matter. This state is entitled to its fair share of offices.

"A CRISIS IN GEORGIA AFFAIRS."

has been reached which is likely to disrupt the happy family, the result of which will be watched with interest.

It is well known that the relations between Secretary of the Interior Smith and Senator Gordon are in a state of high tension, and that the latter has his mettle up to a point where he may not yield to the young man whom he has assisted to such an extent as to make him prominent enough to attract the attention of Mr. Cleveland.

The trouble grows out of the canvass for the marshalship of the northern district of Georgia. As soon as Mr. Cleveland's election was announced, Senator Gordon made it known that his choice for the marshalship was Bob Barry, of DeKalb county, a gentleman with an enormous growth of red whiskers. To oppose him there appeared Colonel Renfroe, who had been postmaster of Atlanta during Mr. Cleveland's previous administration.

This gentleman found a champion in Mr. Hoke Smith, whose cabinet boomlet had not yet materialized. It was thus that days were allowed to slip by until the hour of trial came, when a choice had to be made, and then the candidacy of Pod Dismuke was announced to disturb the serenity which otherwise might have religned.

Secretary Smith felt perfectly sure that he could bring Senator Gordon over to his candidate when the time came to ask him to do so. Great was Secretary Smith's astonishment to hear from Senator Gordon's own lips that he would be true to the man whose cause he had espoused. The secretary, drawing himself up to his full height, said:

"Senator Gordon, before I would consent that Bob Barry should be appointed to any office I would resign my portfolio and return to Atlanta. I tell you that Barry shall not have a crumb at the administration table so long as I sit at it."

The secretary was in a rage, and no less so was Senator Gordon, who, ill concealing it.

have a crumb at the administration table so long as I sit at it."

The secretary was in a rage, and no less so was Senator Gordon, who, ill concealing it, replied: "Mr. Secretary, much as I would regret seeing you take such a step, I would resign my seat in the senate and make an any peal to the people of the state before I would consent that Colonel Renfroe should be appointed to the marshalship. Renfroe is a friend, but my honor is pledged, and if Barry cannot get the place, then by all that is eternal Renfroe shall not be confirmed if he is nominated. I serve notice on you to that effect right now."

Picking up his hat, the senator retired from the secretary's presence, while the latter stood cool and impassive, simply replying: "Very well, senator."

In the canvass which resulted in the election of General Gordon to the senate Hoke Smith was one of his active workers, and, presuming on that fact, he has been inclined to treat the general as a piece of private property. This assumption has for some time been resented by Gordon, but he has tried to suppress his feelings. It is out of this quarrei that Yod Dismuke hopes to gather fruit.

Dalton Argus: Tom Watson is now singing 'Howd'ye, old party, howd'ye, instead of 'Goodby, old party, goodby." Oglethorpe Echo: If Watson and Winn want to get back into the democratic party, reckon we'll have to wedge them in somewhere.

Milledgeville Chronicle: The efforts that Watson seems to be inclined to make to bring warson seems to be inclined to make to bring about peace between the political factions in Georgia is deserving of commendation. We can't afford to be divided in Georgia, and if Mr. Watson can bridge over the chasm his dangerous doctrines created he should have the encouragement of Georgians in the work.

Savannah Press: Mr. Watson proposes to take the stump and educate the people. We shall look forward to his new campaign. This is an off year, but the financial fight before us. The people will study the issue

Carroll County Times: All this would indi-cate that the third party in Georgia will be ready to go out of business when the demo-crats measure up to the standard of the Chicago platform, which, of course they will do at the next session of congress.

Greenesboro Herald-Journal: Hon. Thomas E. Watson and ex-Congressman Winn both speak out for a better feeling among the people and say the men in the people's party ought to be satisfied if the democratic party carries out its pledges. Such talk is patriotic and honorable and we commend them for it.

Dalton Argus: Tom Watson says he will come back into the democratic party, if that party sticks up to its piedges. It's still office Tommy wants, and he has found out that he cannot get it in the tenth outside of the democratic party. But Tommy might live a million years and he could not unde one-tenth the years and be could not undo one-tenth the damage he has done his section of Georgia. He is altogether a bad egg.

Boston, Ga., World: Ex-Congressman Tom Watson is out in a long article giving political views. The article is composed of remarkably moderate words and he says for the present he will hang on to the fragments of the third party, but that he thinks the silver question will soon divide the democrata and the future of the parties will not be set-tled until the division takes place. It is the opinion of a great many people that Tom is heading directly for his first love—the democratic party, the party of the people.

Boston Transcript: Since democratic editors have begun to receive the sweets of office we have not noticed in our democratic exchanges any of those articles deprecating the exchange of the sanctum for an office which were so noticeable in their columns when it was the turn of the republican ediors to get the plums.

New York Times: Unquestionably the tations of the expenditures of a candidate for election is necessary to anything like thorough penditures by political committees. The most stringent law, however, will with culty be made to cover corruption age. That can only be reached by laws of the nature of the civil service reform laws. These, in their turn, will become effective only in the degree that an active public senti-ment can be brought to their support.

SAID IN THE SANCTUMS

The Greenesboro Herald Journal is of the opinion that the democratic party is upon trial and that its duty toward the people is oo plain to be mistaken. It says: "The democracy will be wise as well as just to hearken to the opinions of the people and speedily set about the inauguration of the reforms they pledged to the people."

The Sparta Ishmaelite is a strong friend

The Sparta Ishmaelite is a strong friend of the administration, but that does not prevent it from speaking out upon a matter that is very near and dear to the hearts of the people. This is its opinion:

"Not to call a special session of the fifty-third congress will mean that no reform can be instituted in the tariff and financial laws until Cleveland's term is half gone. That will be neither wise nor patriotic. Mr. Cleveland should remember that it is the people who need the benefits to come from tariff and financial reforms to whom he owes his election."

The Jonesboro Enterprise rejoices that the fight made for the just treatment of Georgia democrats in the adjustment of the government in democratic control is bearing fruit. It says:

"If the American people were to be seriously disappointed in a democratic administration, a new political party would doubtless be organized, but it would not be the third party. It would be a party whose platform would be so broad and statesmanlike that every liberty-loving and patriotic American ould endorse it. It would not be a party whose chosen leaders seek to build strength on prejudice, by arraying class against class, but a party whose gospel would be that of universal brotherhood."

REDEEM THE PLEDGES.

Douglasville New South: If the democrate wish to remain in power the leaders must carry out the platform of the party as ex-pressed at Chicago. In that platform there is not one word in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

Carrollton Free Press: The democratic party is now in control of all the branches of the government and whether its lease of power shall be long or short will depend entirely upon what it does. If it carries out its pledges, the pledges upon which the people rallied under its banners, during the campaign, there is no power on earth to keep it from staying in power, but if it does not. what then? That's the question. Danielsville Monitor: Mr. Cleveland says that he was elected on the platform framed at Chicago and that he will redeem all the pledges therein made. If this is done there will be no need of any other party, except the democratic, and she will be here as long as the world stands.

THERE WAS MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN The Only Negative Vote Was That of Mr. Hooper Alexander, Who Voted Against the Bonds.

FAYOR THE BONDS.

An Expression from the Business Men of the City.

MEETING OF THE COMMERCIAL CLUB

Which Was Held Last Night in the Chamber of Commerce.

If the sentiment of the Commercial Club of Atlanta, composed of the solid business men of this city, is any indication, there is no doubt as to the issuance of the county bonds by an overwhelming majority.

There was a full quorum of the business men present last night, and the meeting was one of great cordiality. Fully a hundred and fifty men were present, and these represented every line of business in the city. Several entertaining speeches were made all of them practical and to the point, Before the meeting was over it became apparent to all present that the sentiment of the members was heartily in favor of the bonds.

A vote was taken after the discussion was over, and with the exception of Mr. Alexander, who adhered to his position in the best of grace, the meeting was a unit in favor of the bonds. It was further recommended that instead of holding the election at the time advertised it should be consolidated with that of the city election for the issuing of water bonds.

The speeches were all short and the privileges of the floor were extended to all

Mr. Oglesby Opens the Meeting. Mr. J. G. Oglesby, the president of the Commercial Club, called the meeting to order. He explained the object for which it had been called, viz., to consider as representative business men the advis-ability of issuing $600,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of carrying out the contemplated county improvements. He stated that no programme had been arranged, but that the names of several who were known to entertain diverse views had been published in the newspapers, several of whom were present. Every member was invited to participate in the discussion.

A letter was read by the president from a special committee of the board of county commissioners, signed by Messrs. Collier, Thompson and Nelms, stating that a resolution would be introduced at the next meeting on Wednesday, providing for the distribution of the money voted in the following manner: $450,000 for a new courthouse on the present site; $100,000 for a new jail; and $50,000 for the reformatory prison.

Mr. Howell Speaks. The first speaker called upon was Mr. Clark Howell. He was greeted with loud applause as he came from his place of retirement. Mr. Howell stated that he had written an editorial for today's paper which he would kill in view of the letter which had been read from the county com-

"After a week's absence from the city I found on my return home that there was no slight sentiment against the bonds, due to a misapprehension as to how the amount would be divided and the lack of sufficient information upon the subject. I am glad, however, that any doubt on that point is now relieved by the letter from the commissioners. I am heartily in favor of the bonds, and have not allowed myself to be influenced by any partisan feelings in yielding to the arguments which have induced me to favor the proposition. We should have too much of the Atlanta spirit to be contentious in regard to sec-tional lines where the good of the city is concerned."

He referred to the urgent necessity for a courthouse, and called attention to the fact that successive grand juries for the last ten years had spoken in plain terms of the Fulton county jail. It has been characterized as a disgrace to the city. As to the reformatory prison it is just a important as the courthouse or the jail. Colonel Robertson, who is one of the best informed men in the state on this line, states that numbers of children are today wearing stripes and are brought in daily amunication with hardened criminals in the penitentiary of the state, who have in them the making of good citizens. The report of every reformatory institution in the outh has shown a remarkable career, and their capacity for the accomplishment of good is beyond computation. The chief objection to the measure is that a reformatory ought to be a state institution. This is not well grounded. We know the difficulty which we have to encounter in seekthe state's aid, and I have only to cite to the trouble we had with Soldiers' Home. We have We need for the reformatory school right here in our midst. From the standpoint of a humanitarian I am heartily in favor of it, and I believe it to be tionably for the best interest of the city. The expenditure of the mor fit the city in many ways, and I have the reliable assurance from proper authori-ties that the tax rate will scarcely be affected. I hope and trust that the bonds will be issued.

Mr. Alexander Opposes. Mr. Hooper Alexander, who was known to be opposed to the bonds, was the next speaker. He was greeted with a warm reception which promised him a courteous

Before Mr. Alexander arose to speak however, Mr. George W. Parrott stated that during a recent visit to New York he had held a conversation with one of the prominent bankers of that city with reference to bonds. He stated that 41-2 per cent bonds would bring $102 in that market.

Mr. Alexander, in beginning his remarks. stated that the point of Mr. Parrott was conclusive evidence to his mind that the credit of the city was overstrained. He would not go so far as to say that it was bad, but the city had loaded herself too heavily. "My convictions are very decided in regard to this matter and I am unalterably opposed to the issuing of bonds. The courthouse, I am frank to admit, is not satisfactory, the jail is also in need of im ents to accommodate the demands, and I will go as far as any gentleman in the advocacy of a reformatory prison. But is it proper and right to seek the desired end in the way proposed? The courthouse has need of certain extensions, although some of the officers have ample room while the others are crowded. The sheriff, for example, has more room at present than he has had for the last ten years. The clerk is crowded, I admit, but the records of the county which have been kept in the sheriff soffice should be removed to other quarters, as they do not properly belong there. The superior courtroom is amply large and as fine as any in the state. The criminal courtroom, however, is unsatisfactory, as is also the city courtroom, but instead of building a new courthouse we should simply make an extension to the present one by using the available lot of land adjacent.

"As to the jail, the trouble has largely grown out of the keeping of United States prisoners at that place. These have been kept in a small outer building for the greater part, although a few of them have been kept in the main building. The reported number of escapes have not actually occurred from the jail, but from the custody of the officers." As to the reformatory prison he thought it had policy to establish it without first confering with the legislature, as there was no law at present authorizing its erection. He was opposed to entailing the heavy debt of so many bonds upon posterity. It was a wrong precedent, and he objected to it as a part of the posterity which had to bear the burden. He saw but little warrant in the way of public improvement for the bonded debt which had already been contracted.

Commissioner Coiller Talks. Commissioner C. A. Collier, who was present as one of the representatives of the board, was next called upon.

Mr. Collier stated that the board had not gone into the matter without deliberation, and that every step had been taken with due and that every step had been taken with due care and circumspection. Time and again the matter had been before the grand jury and many who were present had served upon that body. Two plans, either of which was satisfactory, had been drawn of the jail, and there was nothing in the way of preliminary that had not been arranged. The defect in the way of the reformatory prison so far as the law was concerned could be removed as soon as the legislature. prison so far as the law was concerned could be removed as soon as the legislature met. All of the judges in the county were heartily in favor of the improvements and considered them as absolutely necessary. As to the cost of the buildings they would represent when completed only 7 per cent of the city's enormous wealth, and there was scarcely a man in Atlanta who had not put that much of his money in his home. It would be a shame to house the officials of the richest county in the state in a mere barn. The buildings should be in keeping with the character and dignity of the county. Atlanta had not overstrained her capacity for borrowing money and the fact pacity for borrowing money and the fact that bonds in the past had not brought as much as they should was due altogether to the stringency of the market. The matter was one that nothing except the market could control.

Councilman Reneau's Strong Talk. Councilman Reneau made a strong appeal in behalf of the bonds. He stated in an-Atlanta had much to show for her bonded indebtedness. She had prospered in spite of her debt and had more than doubled her population. There were need of other improvements in addition to the county buildings. There was need of a large hall for the purpose of conventions and other assemblies. purpose of conventions and other assemblies, and Atlanta, in this respect, was a long way behind the times. He desired to see the improvements, and when visitors came to Atlanta he didn't want them to be disappointed. Nothing shows the character of the city like its public buildings.

Mr. Rosser Scores a Hit. Mr. Rosser Scores a Hit.

One of the best speeches of the evening was made by Mr. L. Z. Rosser.

He referred to the present condition of the courthouse, from the standpoint of one who in the course of his business as a lawyer had been there frequently. It was altogether insufficient, and the rooms, in addition to being contracted, were badly in need of ventilation and were very unhealthy. He made several pangent remarks, which forcibly illustrated the necessity of larger and more convenient quarters.

As to the jail, it was a disgrace to civilization, and operated as a punishment to As to the jail, it was a disgrace to civilization, and operated as a punishment to those who were imprisoned, before they were ever convicted of any crime. "The object of a jail," said Mr. Rosser, is not to punish the offender, but to keep him until he is tried by law. And yet the condition of Fulton county jail is such that I feel in reading the accounts of Siberian prisons that we can duplicate it all in Fulton county."

After speaking of the necessity of a jail After speaking of the necessity of a jail he referred in a very pathetic and eloquent manner to the need of a reformatory prison for juvenile offenders. It was a shame that children that ought to be at home, and who had in them the making of noble and useful men, should be sent to the penitentiary and brought daily in contact with branded felons. There were some things in which it would do to consider the question of cost, but there were other things too high and too sacred to be measured with dollars, and one of them was the reformatory prison for the youth of the country. He thought the people, instead of allowing the judges to send them over to the penitentiary, should at least give them the opportunity for a reformation.

Mr. Hass Hass Word.

Mr. Hass Has a Word-Mr. Aaron Haas, in response to a call, stated that he was heartily in favor of the bonds. He did not agree with Mr. Alexander that the city had overstrained herself, and that the price of bonds in the market depended upon the condition of money matters. He stated that the indebtedness of the city at the present time was

MEN OF MARK IN GEORGIA.

The people of the entire union, not less than those in Georgia, have been made to feel an interest in Georgia personalities about Washington city since the advent of the new administration. By one of those freaks of good fortune that is without a philosophy, it became a content with the Washington correspond. fortune that is without a philosophy, it became a contagion with the Washington correspondents to focalize the bandinage inseparable from every office-changing era upon the unique and distinguished peculiarities of the Georgians who went up to the national capital. As often happens what began as a humor finally fruited in honor, and those whose curiosity was first invoked for the specialized Georgians by acquaintance thus started soon came to regard them as men of more than ordinary abilities and distinction as stalwart and deserving types of democracy. Hence it is not strange that Georgians, forced into a prominence not sought for, have been given attention and consideration that otherwise might have been reserved, with the consequence that they would have been left as ordinary runners in the general ruck of candidates.

The New York World of Saturday last took The New York World of Saturday last took upon itself the enterprising task of picturing some of "the Georgians as they are." And as Georgians, like Sam Jones, "despise a dull time" and know the difference between a joke and a Joab's blade well enough to enjoy the former, even at their own expense, we reproduce the sketches of McDougall. The World artist, for the delectation of the friends of the notable Georgians who posed uncon-sciously for his pencil.

Colonel Fred Dismuke, of Griffin, the noted lawyer and legislator of Spalding county, who is a candidate for the marshalship of this district, is thus represented:

Of course everybody in Georgia will re-cognize that this is a hasty snap-shot of the artist's eye. Colonel Dismuke is one the most genial, honorable, home-spun mocrats in Georgia, gallant in arms and faithful in public service before the courts and in the halls of legislation. In treating of the picture The World's correspondent of the picture The World's correspondent says:

"Nothing could possibly be more recent or more authentic than this sketch of a southern statesman who has attracted even Mr. Cleveland's attention. The portrait was made in the Metropolitan hotel corridor at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Mr. Dismuke, whose real name is Fred, but who has been called Pod for no special reason except that it is a pretty name, was leaning on the cigar case explaining a tyreat many important things to a friend unknown to fame. Mr. Dismuke has a high, fine forehead and a clear, piercing eye. He is not a tall man, but impresses the beholder as one who expects something to happen at any moment. What he expects to happen just now is the appointment of Pod Dismuke to be United States marshal in Georgia."

Colonel J. W. Renfroe, of Atlanta, who is the rival candidate for the marshalship, is the next notable from Georgia whom McDougall delineates. This picture by no means represents the fine presence, cordial demeanor and well-known figure of Colonel Renfroe—the man whose record in war was stainless, whose labors in the legislature in the darkest days of Georgia's history were magnificent, whose career in the state treas ury was tried as by fire and fully vindicated, and whose administration of the Atlanta postoffice under Cleveland's first administration was without a blemish. But The World

WASH RENFROE. And of him The World account says:

And of him The World account says:

"Another man who attracts some attention in the Metropolitan is Mr. Wash Renfroe. His portrait, like all others presented here, is made from life, and Mr. McDodgall has not omitted a single one of the lines, curves or other physical characteristics that have made him a power in his neighborhood. Mr. Wash Renfroe always keeps a certain distance between himself and Pod Dismuke. They sit at opposite ends of the dining room and go to the white house at different hours. This is because Wash Renfroe is Pod Dismuke's rival. He wants the place that Mr. Pod Dismuke has decided to get. Nobody ventures to guess what will happen, as both gentlemen come from a section of the country where no rivals are brooked. Mr. Wash Renfroe, rival to Pod Dismuke, resembles most strikingly a well-known New York editor."

And next. comes Hon. Tinsley W. Rucker the accomplished, brilliant, incomparable "Tinny," of Athens. No man in Georgia is better known and more admired for dash, wit and political chivalry than Rucker, and it went without saying that he could no abide in Washington under the most ordinary circumstances without attracting that attention of the shrewdly observant. An here is how The World's artist found him:

"TEENIE BUCKER."

with the biggest watch chain in Washington, is not the man that Teenie Rucker is. Mr. Teenie Rucker also lives at the Metropolitan. He is a man with a future and a past. The future he expects will take the shape of a good office. The past, a tragic one, is familiar to all readers of newspapers. Mr. Teenie Rucker is the man whose hat was stolen at the white house. The picture of him is a good one, and the line of care in his face is a line that actually exists. It is a line of recent creation, and comes of studying carefully and suspiciously every negro with a hat superior to his station in life. Mr. Teenie Rucker's race prejudice leads him to believe that a colored gentleman took his hat while he was explaining things to the president and he proposes to find that hat again—not to wear it, but for the sake of revenge. He will take full revenge upon the wearer and then probably turn the hat over to some worthy charity."

EASTER MONDAY JOYS.

The Easter egg hunt at Ponce de Leon, to which Mrs. Alec Hopkins summoned about sixty little boys and girls in honor of her little daughter Flournoy, was one of, the mer-riest and most delightful entertainments ever rives in Atlanta for the pleasure of little folks. The day was perfect and the natural beauty of the woodlands and meadows made the spot just perfect for a children's frolic. All the small guests gathered in the pavilion, where they were greeted in the sweetest way by theif little hostess, who was radiant in a little frock of dotted pink batiste with wide shoulder and arm-hole ruffles and a short shoulder and arm-hole ruffles and a short full skirt. Her hat was a wide leghorn flute-Iuli skirt. Her hat was a wide leghorn flute-trimmed with mousseline de sole rosettes and satin ribbon, and the whole toilet from its crown to the pretty bronze shoes and stock-ings was as chic and stylish as could be, and the little girl who wore it had that sort of unconcious grace and brightness which is the greatest and most adorable of childish charms. Mrs. Woolley played for the company to unconcious grace and brightness which is the greatest and most adorable of childish charms. Mrs. Woolley played for the company to dance until they had all assembled, and then they all went out under the trees, where the little girls were given pretty baskets tied with ribbons and the boys straw hats, in which to put the eggs; then the signal was given for them all to start out in search of these wonderful things which the German legend declares are laid by the rabbits at Easter tide. Up the great hillside and through the level meadows the little feet scrambled, and many were the treasures that came to light under bright searching eyes. Some of the little boys found as many as fifty eggs, and every child from the largest to the smallest had a basketful by the time the hunt had ended.

After this favors were distributed by Mrs. Hopkins, these being little chickens and rabbits filled with candy eggs. Lemonade and cake was then served and the children all bade goodby to their hostess with happy hearts. It was a genuine, wholesome children's party and everything about it bespoke that good taste and artistic grace possessed by the little girl's mother. The grown folks who assisted her in the arrangements were Mrs. Charlie Hopkins, Mr. Henry Inman and Mr. Will Lowe.

The little people included mest of those whose names usually appear at fashionable children's parties.

One of the most artistic entertainments of the season will be that of Miss Minnie Jones at the Young Men's Christian Association tonight. Miss Jones is a disciple of the Delsartean symm of grace, and is an apt and perfect exponent of the rudiments of that idea. She is pretty and as graceful as it is possible to be, while in her poses she appears to be an animated piece of statuary so perfect is she in the suppleness of her movements. In fact, it is nearly impossible to describe her, for the thoughts of her many dainty graceful movements bewilders one.

Bishop Fitzgerald's sermon last night was one of great power and was accompanied by unusual manifestations. Rev. Sam W. Small will preach tonight. Among the other attractions will be Mr. Charles Tillman, the noted singer, who will be on hand and participate in the services. Dr. Boring, of the Holston conference, is taking an active part in the revival. Everybody is cordially invited to attend the services, which begin every night at a quarter to 8 o'clock.

The meeting is one of the most successful of the many which are going on at the present time in Atlanta, and the good results accruing from it have exceeded the anticipations of any of the congregation.

Editor Constitution—In The Journal of yesterday I was quoted as saying, in reference to the Gate City bank case, that "Inquiries made by the United States grand jury showed that the following amounts had gone out from the bank in a manner which might bear legal investigation: Credited to Mr. W. H. Patterson was $32.000, to Mr. A. J. McBride $19,000, to Captain Jackson $19,000, and to the Hill family $90,000."

There are two errors in this statement no doubt unintentional. I did not refer to inquiries made by the grand jury, nor did I meution Captain Jackson in connection with the affairs of the bank, and I make this correction in justice to him and to myself.

Of course the general reader has but little specific knowledge of the rapid growth in all directions, or the widening out, not alone of medical knowledge but of the courage that permits physicians to practice in accordance with that which they know to be rational and right.

One of the first things that meets and astounds the medical students of today is the knowledge that world-wide renown in the past died from causes that at the present time would be called simple, and that would not for a moment involve the question of life or death. What was in the realm of uncertainty and doubt then is clear as the sunlight now. And the practitioner proceeds at light now. And the practitioner proceeds at once to combat a disease that in earlier days he would stand before in helpless amaze.

Years ago it was thought that any young man could fit himself for this highest of all professions on earth, next to the ministerial, and it is even now questioned whether the true physician ought to stand side by side even with it.

The New York Market.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

Exhance.

New York April 3.—The week opened with the bullish ascendant at the stock exchange, especially in the case of industrial stocks and Aew England. Although certain developments were favorable to the bears, who hammered the market at intervals, the trend of prices was upward and some sharp net gains were recorded. At the start, Manhattan furnished a sensation by its drop of 10 points to 169 on the announcement made at the meeting of the rapid transit company that a sypdicate, names not mentioned, had volunteeted to furnish a large sum of money in furtherance of an underground transit scheme.
The break in Manhattan had practically no effect on the general list. Neither did the remors about impending large gold shipments, nor the advisement from the west that the rallroad engineers in the case of the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Northern Michigan strike that they were determined to fight to the end.

Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louls, Rubber, Pittsburg and Western, preferred, adn New England advanced anywhere from 1 t 3 points, and finelly Chicago Gas came to the front, selling up from 89 3-4 to 93 on heavy buying for both the long and short account.
The wheat market improved in sympathy.
Indications were not wanting that the operators, who have recently the bull tack, and are inclined to assume aggressive tactics on the strength of the prospects of easter money and he stimulus to be afforded the railroad

such an impetus to the bearish feeling that all features of a favorable nature are lost sight of, and the dispotion appears to be to sell regardless of price or quantity. Liverpool is closed until Wednesday, and we are without any advices from the English markets. Some selling orders have been received here for continental account, and accepted as pointing to a lower Liverpool on Wednesday. Although the market closed easy at some #i@21 points decline, the feeling among the trade here is more conservative regarding the course of prices tomorrow, and a reaction is maturally looked for after such a severe shaking up as we have had today. NEW YORK, April 3—The cotton market opened at a decline of about 8 points, and ruled weak all day on realisations, supposed to be for account of local bulls. Liverpool was closed and the market had no support, sales having to be made at concessions. The general feeling here continues bearish, being based on the statistical position of the staple, which is weak, and on the figures of The Chronicle, which are bearish, and reports from the south, which indicate that cotton is being planted on the largest possible scale. The immediate future of the market depends on the tone of Liverpool. The pressure to sell actual cotton which weighs on our market can only be relieved by a bester domand, and we have to look to Liverpool for this. Liverpool has kept ateady in the face of our recent deciline, and we are therefore approaching an export basis, and on this theory many think that a rally is close at hand, and that prices are low enough for the time being. There is, however, very little outside interest. The big bears have covered on this decline, and the first rally is looked for to put out fresh lines, We see little encouragement for holders at present, and think cotton will sell lower in the long run.

THE CHICAGO MARKET

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Previsions.

CHICAGO, April 3—Wheat opened for May about %

@he lower than Saturday's closing and receded he or so more, then became stronger and prices were steadily like, then weakened off slightly and the close was steady. The weakness at the start was due to the resteady. The weakness at the start was due to the re-ported induces caused by the break in provisions Sat-urday. Tese failures caused some uneasiness among traders and induced em selling, but good buying for May turned the market and caused the advance. Bad crop reports were received from the southwest, from central Illinois and Indiana. Dry weather continues in Kansas and Missouri. There was some talk of a builtsh Illinois state crop report, which is expected within a Illinois state crop report, which is expected within a day or so. July sold within about 3), c of May, but the day or so. July sold within about 3, c of May, but the difference widened to 4,0 again. The visible supply decreased less than generally expected—only 534,000 bushels, and a year ago it decreased 267,000 bushels. The total visible supply is estimated at 17,645,000 bushels and a year ago at 41,036,000 bushels. The receipts in the northwest continue large, and local receipts also exceeded the estimates. Export clearances were larger. In corn the initial transactions were about the final quotations of Saturday, and on selling by longs and the local crowd in general the price broke 4c, when a 4c reaction set in, the early sellers turning buyers, due to prospects of a decrease in the visible. This advance did not hold, however, the up-turn bringing out more selling orders.

selling orders.

There was a liberal trade in oats, but fluctuations

There was a liberal trade in oats, but fluctuations were confined to %c, and the close was at about the same prices as on Saturday.

The provision market was a puzzle. Each product had to stand on its own merit. The market opened nervous with prices about the bottom figures on the board on Saturday. While lard held well pork and ribs got slaughtered late in the day. Long stuff kept coming out from all quarters on the way down. The posting of the fallure of two concerns, Simons & Co. and Baodgrass, both thought to have been hurt by the slump in provisions Saturday, added to the shaky condition of the market. Simons was thought to be a loser on 7,003 therees of lard and Snodgrass was said to be in the gap for a large line of stuff held for Ryan, of Dubuque.

The leading futures ranged as follows in Chicago today.

Lamson Brus. & Co.'s Grain Letter.

By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager.
CHICAGO, April 3.—There was a nervous feeling this morning and the market for nearly everything opened in a very unsettled condition. It soon became evident, however, that strong parties were willing to buy wheat and provisions around Saturday's low prices. While provisions are high, even at the decline, the crop of hogs was light, and it is not an unusual thing for lard to sell around 9 cents, even when we have had a fair supply of hogs. We think the shorts who follow the market any longer at the present prices are likely to meet with punishment. To all appearances the strong holders were the principal buyers today. Logan & Co.'s message from Springfield claims that the official report of the winter wheat condition of Illinois does not exceed 50 per cent of last year. 25 per cent is entirely killed and not over 70 per cent of the balance is good. Reports from Kansas, southern Nebraska and Missouri continue very bad. Clearances of wheat and four were large, aggregating 700,000 bushels. The market closed strong, apparently with an upward tendency.

There was a better demand for corn today than for some time. Several large cargoes were sold at 1-4c higher than could be obtained any time last week. The 40c market talked about so long by the floor traders was nearly reached today and it seems more than probable to us that will be low price for some time. The demand for 40c corn when navigation opens is likely to exceed the supply.

On the whole the market closes with rather a healthy feeling all round.

RECEIVER'S SALE

N. R. FOWLER, Auctioneer

Six acres suburban property will be sold at the courthouse, next Tuesday, April 4th, at 11 o'clock. This tract of land fronts on the west side of Johnson road, 276 feet, extending back 917 feet on the hill just beyond and east of Ponce de Leon Springs. The electric cars run immediately in front, on the nine-mile circle. The entire tract is covered over with beautiful forest trees, oak, hickory, black, ack and poplar, and adjoins property of F. P. Rice and John B. Daniel, and across the street is that of T. M. Clarke 2nd Patterson Bro's. No property in Edgewood, Imman Park, or Copenhill, ranks this in point of peanty, it lies level from front to rear. We know of no acreage in Fulton county more desirable for subdivision. It would make ten or twelve as pretty lots as a crow ever flew over; all large and beautifully shaded, with electric cars at your door with regular and permanent schedule. It is sold by order of court with perfect titles, and will certainly change ownership. Plats at my office; also at courthouse on day of sale, April 4th.

3. In an action by a husband for loss of his wife's services occasioned by a tortious personal injury to her, he can recover the reasonable value of such services as have been lost to him from the time of the injury to the date of trial; and in reliculating the amount, the jury may take into consideration the nature of the services, and all the circumstances of the case. There need be no direct or express evidence of vaule, either by the day, week, month, or any other period of time, or of any aggregate sum. The peculiar relation which the wife sustains to her husband and his household takes her services out of the rules of law which apply to computing the value of services rendered by hirelings or ordinary servants.

Witkowski v. Stubbs. Lien. Void sale. Title. Agency. Estoppel. Judgment. Verdict. Before Judge Ross. City court of Macon.

1. A livery stable keeper who, in order to enforce the lien given him by section 1986 of the code, sells the property by virtue of no authority except that conferred by sections 1992 and 2140, cannot become the purchaser. A sale made by himself, is in any event, voidable; and if made without giving the full thirty days notice required by the sections last above cited, is absolutely void.

2. If, after making a void sale to himself, the livery stable keeper sell the animal to another at private sale, making the sale as owner and not in the capacity of agent, the purchaser will acquire no title as against the original owner who left the horse in the stable, although the latter had authorized the keeper to sell as his agent. The keeper having appropriated the animal and sold it for his own benefit, made no attempt to execute the agency, and did not execute it.

3. An action by the original owner against the purchaser from the keeper for the recovery of the property is not barred by a judgment against the plaintiff in a previous action of like kind brought by him against the keeper, the verdict on which that judgment was based showing upon its face not only that the action was brought before the keeper, the defendant in that action, was guilty of any conversion of the property, but also that it was rendered on that ground alone, it thus appearing that the title to the property was not then passed upon or adjudicated.

4. The question of whether the livery stable keeper's bill, chargeable upon the animal, could be used by the purchaser from the keeper in mitigation of damages not having been made in the pleadings, in any part of the charge of the court, excepted to nor hy request to charge, and the evidence being conflicting as to whether in fact any such bill was justly due or owing, there is no cause for setting aside the verdict as excessive for the reason that no part of the alleged bill was

1. Admission by an officer of court in an answer to a rule against him for money collected may be considered as evidence of facts necessary to establish his liability, notwithstanding the court in its order making the rule absolute may improperly go further and order the answer to be stricken. The order to strike is irregular, and may be treated as surplusage.

2. A solicitor general or attorney at law who, with the consent of the board of county commissioners, voluntarily hired out certain misdemeanor convicts, is not entitled to payment out of the hire for his services either in hiring or in collecting the hire. There is no law authorizing payment for such services from the funds of the county.

8. Under section 3956 of the code, a rule absolute against an officer of court for money collected bears interest from its date until satisfied, at twenty per cent per annum, whether a written demand for payment of the money was previously made or not.

payment or the money was previously made or not.

4. The fact that the rule absolute was rendered after the passage of the act of October 16, 1891, in relation to the hiring of misdemeanor convicts, does not bring the case within the provisions of that act, as it relates exclusively to cases arising from and after its passage, and the money for which the rule absolute was granted was collected before.

5. Under the decision made by this court in this case at October term, 1891; (88 Ga. 238), the court below did not err in making the rule against the solicitor general absolute.

Where it is not delivered, an agent whose duty it is to keep the property of his principal insured is under obligation to see that in other respects the contract is consummated, and on being sued for a breach of duty, the burden of proving that it was in fact consummated is on him. If he seeks to show this by evidence of a local custom whereby it was the practice of insurance companies to renew any policy shortly before the expiration of the former one and presenting a bill for the premium within a month of two after such expiration, the burden is on him to establish that this custom was complied with in the particular instance. If a new policy, though written up in the company's office, was never sent out, nor any bill for premium presented, nor any premium paid or jendered, and if the premises were destroyed by fire long after the usual time for thus cosummating a renewal contract had elapsed, the agent is liable.

THE ENGINEERS' CASE

It Came Up Before Judge Speer at Macon Yesterday.

COMER IN CONTEMPT?

Drawn First Blood.

ASSISTANT CHIEF YOUNGSON TESTIFIES

Mr. Waterhouse Another Witness Testify as to the Engineers' Side. Other News of Macon.

Macon, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—The Central railroad engineers' case came up before Judge Emory Speer of the United States court, this morning at 10 o'clock, on the question of requiring Receiver Comer, of the Central, to sign a contract with the engineers for the ensuing year. A full recital of this matter has frequently been published in The Constitution, so it is not necessary to give a resume of it here. When court opened today Attorney R. W. Patter-son and his clients, the committee from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the entire system of the Central road, and Assistant Chief A. B. Youngson, of Cleveland, O., were present; also Receiver Comer and his attorneys, Messrs. Cunning-ham, of Savannah, and Marion Erwin, of Before entering upon the direct question at issue, Attorney Patterson arose and stated to the court that Receiver Comer has been in contempt of the court in that he had violated the order of the court which directed that pending the hearing on the new contract the old contract between the road and the engineers should remain in force. Attorney Fatterson stated that the receiver had utterly ignored this order and force. Attorney l'atterson stated that the receiver had utterly ignored this order and had violated the terms and agreements of the old contract. He cited the tact that the place of the engineer who was hurt in the recent wreck of the Nancy Hanks had been filled by a man, Mr. Clark, who is not a member of the brotherhood, and that the road has issued an order which now requires all freight crews to run through from Macon to Savannah, whereas, formerly the crews were relieved at Wadley. This new rule adds from five to seven hours of labor to the freight engineers. Mr. Patterson prayed that the court should require the receiver to observe and respect the order of the court which directed that the old contract be kept in force pending the decision of the court on the new contract.

Attorney Cunningham, speaking for Receiver Comer, replied that Receiver Comer had not been advised of any order of the court in reference to the continuation and enforcement of the old contract, and did not see, therefore, how Receiver Comer could be held in contempt. He stated that Clark had been put on the Nancy Hanks because members of the brotherhood had said that they did not desire to make so long a run as is required by the Nancy Hanks.

Judge Speer stated that when the committee of engineers, Mr. Waterhouse chair-

Judge Speer further said that he had told Mr. Comer in person, in Savannah, that the old contract should remain in force, and that the court now again notified Receiver Comer that the old contract must be kept in force and all its terms and agreements be observed pending the hearing on the new Engineers Draw First Blood.

Thus the first blood of the day was drawn by the engineers, and the large number of them who were in the courtroom watching the proceedings were evidently much gratified by the statement of the court, for the officers of the Central road have been declaring that the old contract was not in officers of the Central road have been de-clarin- that the old contract was not in force and that Judge Speer had never di-rected that it should continue while the new contract matter was pending.

Judge Speer notified Attorney Patterson that he would not now enter into any in-vestigation of the accusation of contempt brought against Receiver Comer for the al-leged disregard of the order of the court directing that the old contract be kept in force. Judge Speer said this accusation was a criminal proceeding, while the ques-tion of the new contract was a civil one, was a criminal proceeding, while the ques-tion of the new contract was a civil one, and that it would be illogical and out of all precedent to blend the two. He di-rected Attorney Patterson to proceed with the matter relating simply to the question of a new contract, and to introduce his ev-idence, etc. Mr. Patterson first read his bill or petition, and Mr. Cunningham read the answer of Receiver Comer. The old contact was also read.

Assistant Grand Chief Youngson. The introduction of witnesses was the next business in order. Assistant Grand Chief Youngson of Cleveland, O., and the committee of engineers from the Central's system were swern by plaintiff. Mr. Youngson was the first witness put on the stand. He stated that he had served as a practical engineer about twenty-two and a half years. He explained fully the "senjority clause" of the proposed new contract. He stated that this is fully in line with the civil service idea of the American government, and that seniority of service should be given precedence where merit and ability are equal. If this were not so there might be no incentive to many men to render steadfast, faithful and efficient service in the hope of promotion. Mr. Youngson stated that the pay of freight and passenger engineers on the Central is 1-4 of a cent per mile less than the general roads of the country. It can be stated here in justice to the engineers that when Receiver Comer expismed to the engineers the bad financial condition of the Central road, they immediately struck out the clause in the new contract asking for an increase in pay to the standard wages of the different roads of the country, and do not insist on the increase. This shows the conservative spirit and moderation of the engineers. Mr. Youngson explained the advantages of a contract. He said it made the engineers better satisfied, for they knew what wages they might expect during the year, and under what terms and conditions they were expected to work. He stated that out of the 300 engineers on the Central road 250 belonged to the brotherhood. Ninety per cent of all the engineers of the country are members of the brotherhood. In answer to what are the benefits of the brotherhood to the engineers of the road from hauling the cars of another road on which there was a strike and if said cars were hauled by "scabs." Mr. Youngson said there is such a rule, and engineer's life.

Chairman Waterhouse, of the committee of engineers, was the next witness. H tract signed. General Managers McBee, Belking and Gabbett had been prompt to sign the contract. He showed how the "seniority clause," to which Receiver Comer objected, gave each and every engineer equal rights. Mr. Waterhouse stated that he has been in the employment of the Central road about twenty-eight years, twenty-one years of which he has served as a practical engineer. He stated that the committee of engineers had always been courteously received by Receiver Comer, and that Mr. Comer had once told them that that he could not sign a contract with the engineers unless it met the approval of the court. Mr. Waterhouse stated that General Superintendent Wadley had refused to treat with the engineers as an organization, but would listen to them as individual engineers. Mr. Waterhouse said he would resign his position as engineer on the Central before he would violate any of the rules of the brotherhood. Chairman Waterhouse said there are about two hundred and fifty engineers on the Central, two hundred and eleven of whom belong to the brotherhood.

After Mr. Waterhouse's testimony Judge Sneer inquired of Attorney Patterson jf his other witnesses would give the same character of evidence, and a reply being made in the affirmative, the court suggested that it did not care to hear any more; whereupon Mr. Patterson said he would rest his case, reserving the right, of course, to introduce evidence in rebuttal to any testimony that may be introduce; by the defendant.

Comer on the Stand.

Mr. Comer stated that his general objection to signing a contract was that the engineers would not obey a contract if it came in conflict with the secret rules of the order. He was unwilling to sign a contract if the engineers did not agree to haul over the Central road cars of another road on which there is a strike. He also objected to paying for over-work under the following conditions: If the fiexed schedule of a hundred mile run is four hours, for which the engineer is paid $4, and the engineer, by reason of some accident for which neither the enlancer nor the road is responsible, is delayed two hours over time, Receiver Comer does not think the engineer should be paid extra for the delayed time. He also objected to the "seniority clause." Receiver Comer's construction of this was that merit was not to figure in the matter at all, but only length of service. The engineers say, however, that merit is to be considered. Receiver Comer thinks that though two engineers may be equally skilled be believes the engineer who manifests the most interest in the welfare of "the company should be the one to be promoted. Right here it may be stated that it was put in evidence that in selecting engineers for the road the brotherhood wanted an examination as to competency to be made by the master mechanic and three engineers to be selected by him, and, in fact, this is one of the conditions of the contract. Receiver Comer objected to this clause because he thinks that the master mechanic alone should have the right and privilege of determining the competency of an engineer, and the responsibility should not be shifted on others. He also objected to any clause which sought to interfere with the rapid running of trains. For instance, Mr. Comer stated that some of the engineer objected to the Nancy Hanks, but he thought these were old fogles. He has talked with three of the four engineers who run the Nancy Hanks, and they are willing to continue maki

Nancy Hanks, and they are willing to continue making the run.

Judge Speer's Joke.

Just here Judge Speer stated that a short time since he was in Savannah standing by a Nancy Hanks engine talking to a fireman, when he observed an engineer with his head tied up. The judge asked the fireman what was the matter with the engineer's head. The fireman replied: "He was an engineer on the Nancy Hanks and the train ran so fast the wind cut his ears off." This recital by Judge Speer provoked much merriment.

Saturday morning, were buried yesterday afternoon.

It was the end of the awful disaster at Ladd's lime works near this city.

The details of the story show that quite a number of men were engaged in preparing for an unusually heavy blast, and had drilled a hole over eight feet deep in the solid lime rock on the side of Alabaster mountain. About fifteen dynamite cartridges had been placed in the hole, when one of the men took up a tamping rod, a tool several feet long, one end of which is of hickory wood and the other of iron, and endeavored to force the cartridges deeper into the hole in order to make room for more. He had struck only a few times when there was a loud report and the grim mountain trembled.

When the smoke and dust cleared away half a dozen men lay upon the ground, two dead, two mortally wounded, another with a fractured shoulder and one with his ankle broken and his leg larcerated. Robert Jackson and James Mayhew, white, were killed instantly and William Murphy and Bedford Brown, colored, died in a short time. Joe Hall and Aaron Craig, colored, are resting very well today and will probably recover.

Murphy had been an employe of the works for twenty years and this is the first accident worth mentioning that has occurred there in all that time.

The only explanation that can be given for the horrible occurrence is that the dynamite exploded from the concussion caused in tamping the cartridges. Dr. Sullivan, the manager, is deeply grieved over the accident and will no doubt do all he can for the stricken families, though, if reports be true, the management of the works are in no way responsible for the explosion. It was from using the metal end of the tamping rod instead of the wooden end.

Albany, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—The Georgia Chautauqua is now in full swing and throngs of people are arriving in the city by every train.

The programme for today has been a lecture by Rabbi Charles Wessolowsky, of this city, at 10 o'clock a. m.; a lecture by Rev. W. D. Powell, of Mexico, at 3 o'clock p. m., and the formal opening and house-warming which is now taking place tonight. Many distinguished and eloquent speakers are on the platform and each, as they are called upon, are making the great tent ring with eloquence.

The tenchers' institute was organized this morning at 10 o'clock by State School Commissioner Bradwell. A large number of teachers were present, but the greater number of them came in during the day, and there are now about 500 here from the contignous counties. The teachers' institute is one of the most prominent features of the chautauqua, and Commissioner Bradwell is thoroughly imbued with its importance. The institute of last year was a revelation to those who attended and their influence has made it easy in trebling the attendance of the assembly's institute.

The Hon. Gazzway Hartridge, of Savannah, will lecture tomorrow at 10 o'clock n. m. on "The Girl of the Period." At 3 o'clock p. m. Professor Merritt, of Vanderbilt university, will deliver some of his highly entertaining recitations, and at 8 o'clock p. m. Chancellor Sims will deliver another lecture. It may be said of this gentleman that his efforts here have made him a general favorite and the subject of every tongue.

There was nothing of a run on the bank. All the old customers returned and many new ones made deposits. Confidence is entirely restored and the business of the bank will proceed as usual.

The resumption of the Bank of Americus justly proves the determination of our citizens to forge ahead. Americus is truly the best town in southwest Georgia and our banks are all solid financially.

$500,000 NS THE UPSET PRICE.

It May Bring More, but That Much Will Buy It if There Is No Higher Bid. The State Courts Win.

The Atlanta and Florida railroad is advertised again this morning for sale. This time the sale is to be by the receiver of the state court. Bfeore it was advertised by a commissioner of the United

The litigation over this railroad has been long and complicated. If all the petitions for receivers, injunctions, appeals and other proceedings were pasted together they would stretch from one end of the line to the other. The litigation has extended to Macon on one side and to New Orleans on the other, and has oscillated from state court to federal until it was hard to tell where to find the line after losing sight of it for forty-eight

Messrs. Payne & Tye have fought persistently and at last seem to have the field to themselves. They have had many knotty points to contend against, but they have cut them one after another. They represent the Pennsylvania Steel Company, which has a claim against the company for considerably more than $100,000 for rails. The upset price for the property is $500.000, and on the purchase $100,000 must be paid in cash on the day of sale.

The road is bonded for $840,000. Common stock was issued at $15,000 per mile, and the road is 104 miles in length. The construction company organized to build the road was capitalized at $400,000. which was actually paid in. The construction company took common stock at the rate of five for one.

The Atlanta and Florida passes through a splendid section of the state. The line needs to be extended to get an outlet on the south in order to accomplish the greatest good. It could be made an in-dependent outlet for Atlanta and the benefits would be wast. At the upset or minimum price the road would be cheap.

So far as is known there is no com-pany figuring on the property. Newman Erb has a scheme to consolidate it with the Marietta and North Georgia and the Cumberland Gap, and on the south with the Georgia Southern and Florida and make a through line from Cincinnati to Florida. One or two short links would have to be built. The plan is all right in scope, but there is no money in sight so far to carry it out.

FIGHTING THE PLAN.

A Central Stockholder Says That the Southwestern Gets the Best Showing.

Savannah, Ga., April 3 .- (Special.)-And now comes another intervention, one with ugly insinuations sure to provoke the virtuous wrath of Receiver Comer and other parties whom it attacks.

It is an assault from an unexpected quarter. It may mean much and it may mean little, according to who is really behind it.

It is an intervention in the foreclosure proceedings of the Farmers' Trust Comtripartite bonds. It was filed today in the United States court here. Lt is another crossfire upon the reorganization and charges that the Southwestern railroad stockholders are getting the big part of the reorganization plan and that the reorganization committee in their own right are not interested in Central railroad stock. What the Intervention Alleges.

John S. Tilney, of Orange, N. J., the owner of 500 shares of Central railroad ney, John W. Weed, of New York, files his notice of intervention. He is not convinced that the Central railroad will con test the claim of the Southwestern, that the Central railroad must be first sold for the satisfaction of tripartite bonds before the Southwestern railroad property should be sold for the satisfaction of the same. Mr. Tilney believes the reorganization scheme is highly detrimental to Central railroad stockholders because it increases the amount of its bonded debt by watering it, and also converts the stock of the Southwestern railroad into a first mortgage on the

He charges that Mr. Comer and his board of directors altogether do not own as much Central railroad stock as the petitioner, but many of them are large ow of Southwestern railroad stock; that Mr. Comer has identified himself with the movement by offering himself to represent the stockholders of the Southwestern Railroad Company, who favor the reorganization; that he attended the meeting of the stockholders of the Southwestern Railroad Company and held proxies. The petitioner charges that an effort will be made to sell the main line of the Central be made to sell the main line of the Central to pay the tripartite bonds, the purpose being illegally to preserve the interests of the stockholders of the Southwestern Railroad Company. Mr. Tilney believes that the sult for foreclosure was brought at the request and is controlled by the reorganization committee, and that Receiver Comer and his directors have allied themselves with the schemes and purposes of the reorganization committee, and that no real and earnest defense against the illegal claim of the Southwestern railroad will be made. The petitioner avers that the Southwestern The petitioner avers that the Southwestern railroad is justly an equal joint debtor with the Central railroad upon the tripartite bonds and is not entitled to be treated merely as surety for such indebtedness, and that the Central railroad should not alone bear the burden of paying the bonds.

The intervention has caused much comment and the general belief is that it is only a surface indication and that there is more to come out of it.

MR. CARL WEINMEISTER, OF THIS CITY,

Applied for Admission Into Stevens Institute After Graduating Here, and Found That a Course Was Unnecessary.

It is time that Atlanta was waking up to a realization of what a treasure she has in the Technological school.

When a northern college, which occupies the highest reputed rank, refuses to accept an applicant for admission from the south, who has previously had the benefit of a course of instruction in one of our southern colleges, it certainly argues a marked degree of excellence on the part of our southern institutions.

This is in short the outcome of an interesting story which will be read with a great deal of interest by the friends of the Technological school, and by the friends of both practical and higher education in this Last May Mr. Carl Weimmeister, a son of our popular fellow townsman, graduated from the school of technology in this city. He was proficient in all of his studies and ranked among the leading men of his class. Being desirous of equipping himself more thoroughly for the work of his profession he conceived the idea of taking a special course at one of the northern institutions. This he felt to be northern institutions. This he felt to be necessary, not on account of any deficiency in the training of the Technological school, but by reason of the vastly superior advantages which he thought to derive from a post graduate course in the highest educational institution of the kind in the cational institution of the kind in the country.

Accordingly soon after receiving his diploma from the school in Atlanta, he made his arrangements to go to Hoboken, N. J., and enter the Stevens institute. This college has a reputation second to none in the country, and occupies the leading position among Technological schools.

When Mr. Weinmeister applied for armission into the school he was examined by the several professors in each of their knowledge of practical mechanics, which had previously acquired embraced all the studies in the curriculum of that institution.

When Mr. Weinmeister applied for armission into the school he was examined by the several professors in each of their departments. They gave him a rigid examination and thoroughly sifted his knowledge in all the points touching upon his course at the Technological school in Atlanta. It was found before they had proceeded far that he was remarkably proficient in all of their departments, and the knowledge of practical mechanics, which he had previously acquired embraced all the studies in the curriculum of that institution.

"There is nothing we could do for you," said the superintendent. "You know all we could teach you."

In other words it was impossible for Mr. Weinmeister to learn anything at that school, except a small amount of collateral information. It was beyond the range of instruction afforded by that institution to extend his knowledge, and the professors were candid with him.

"We find you thorough in all of the branches taught at this institution," was the remark of one of the professors, "and to take a course at this institution would scarcely add materially to the knowledge which you possess already."

This was the professor's remark in substance. Mr. Weinmeister was satisfied himself from what he could gather that while the college was handsomely equipped, and was one of the finest schools in the country, to one who had never graduated and had his career to make, it was nevertheless unnecessary as a supplement to his collegiate course in this city.

Accordingly, instead of wasting his time in Hoboken, he began to knock around and obtained a lucrative situation in New York. He is now at home on a short visit, and will return to the north in a few days.

Armed with this information a representative of The Constitution called on Mr. Weinmeister at the Buropean hotel yesterday afternoon. He, was found without difficulty, though his modesty was a serious difficulty in the way of ascertaining the desired information.

"Yes," said he, "the Technological school of this city is one of the best in the country, and nowhere in my travels have I seen anything superior to its workshops. Of course we need more money down here. The insufficiency of means to cope successfully with northern institutions is the only thing in the way, but even as it is, the school is far more deserving and far more excellent than many suppose."

is the only thing in the way, but even as it is, the school is far more deserving and far more excellent than many suppose."

Mr. Weinmeister spoke with a great deal of earnestness and seemed to be proud of the institution from which he had obtained his diploma.

With a good mechanical library, a good testing machine, a laboratory for assaying ores, and perhaps a little more practice in electrical measurements, the Atlanta School if Technology would be one of the finest in the country, and even as it is it is an institution of which every Atlantian should be proud.

Shot His Brother-in-Law.

Griffin, Ga., April 3.—(Special.)—Meager details reached the city today of a shooting which occurred Saturday night at Jolly, a small town on the Georgia Midland railroad. A white man named Pryor shot his brother-in-law, Whitaker, four times, some of the shot taking effect and badly wounding the unfortunate man. It seems that Whitaker was drinking, and entering Pryor's house, began to abuse him and his wife, when Pryor shot him. The wounded man asked that nothing be done to his slayer, as the fault was his alone.

Gentlemen—Pursuant to your instructions, we have examined the patents of Dr. H. Sanche in connection with the so-called "Electropoise" made by the Electrolibration Company, of Birmingham, Ala., and we have to report as follows:

Said instrument is clearly an infringement of the patent rights of Dr. Sanche, and especially of his letters patent No. 476,080, granted May 31, 1802, which, it may be said, was granted by the patent office in full view of the rights of said company as found of record in the patent office.

The words "Electropoise Victory" are found of record as the lawful trade mark of said Dr. Sanche. Very truly yours.

A. A WOOD & SON.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

Colonel Darnell Retired from Office Yesterday Morning.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY JAMES IT IS NOW.

Three ex-District Attorneys Watched the Formalities with Interest-Judge New-man and Colonel Darnell Spoke,

District Attorney Joe James is the way it reads now, and that gentleman is already familiar with the routine of his office. His first work was to approve of seven war-

Colonel Joe James received his commission yesterday morning and was sworn in a little after noon yesterday by United States Court Clerk Mr. O. C. Fullcer. After being sworn in by the clerk the new district attorney was taken in charge by ex-District Attorney Darnell and led into the United States courtroom and there the for-mality of an introduction to the court, Judge Newman presiding, was gone through District Attorney James was introduced to Judge Newman by his predecessor, Colonel Darnell. His introduction of District Attorney James was also the occasion of his own official farewell to the court, with which he has been associated for the past four years.

"May it please the court," said Colonel Darnell, "my term of office as United States attorney for this district having expired, and my successor having been appointed and qualified, I am now ready to deliver to him his office, with all the books, records, papers and property belonging thereto.

"In taking leave of the court and its of-ficers, with whom I have been so long and so pleasantly associated, officially and otherwise, I wish to express to you and to them the high sense of appreciation I feel for the uniform kindness and courtesy shown me in the discharge of the many and sometimes difficult duties devolving and sometimes diment dudies devolving upon me.

"And I desire, more especially, to bear testimony to your own high sense of duty, justice and impartiality in the administration of the laws of the United States in this district, and that disposition on the part of the court to deal with all with as much of the humanity and mercy of the much of the humanity and mercy of the law as may be consistent with its require-law as may be consistent with its requirements.

"If I have committed errors in the performance of duty, I beg your indulgence to say they were not the result of intention to do so. I have prosecuted for the United States as vigorously as, from a sense of duty and the due observance of my oath of office, was required, and I leave office unconscious of having done to any the slightest intentional injustice.

"The condition of the office is such that my successor will, I trust, find no difficulty in entering upon the discharge of its duties to the entire satisfaction of all, and I now present him to you as the United States attorney for this district and bid you and the officers of the court an official and affectionate farewell."

Judge Newman Replied Feelingly.

Judge Newman Replied Feelingly.

When the ex-district attorney had concluded the introduction of his successor, Judge Newman said:

"I reciprocate all that has been so aptly expressed by Colonel Darnell, who retires from office today. Our relations have always been of the kindliest and everything that has passed between us has always been in the most cordial feeling. I can commend the ex-district attorney as a most faithful and vigorous officer, one who never relaxed his efforts in endeavors to discover bottom facts in all his cases. I take pleasure, also, in welcoming the new district attor-bottom facts in all his cases. I take pleasure, also, in welcoming the new district attorney, who comes so highly recommended, and who is so well known throughout the state as a gentleman of the highest ability."

During the introduction of District Attorney James to the court there were three ex-district attorneys looking on—Judge Bigby, Hon. Ben Hill and Colonel Darnell.

It was immediately after the introduction of Colonel James to the court that Colonel Rucker took his oath of office as assistant attorney, his commission having arrived sooner than had been anticipated. Just after the formality of the Introduction was over the new district attorney received a telegram from the attorney general inquiring whether or not he had been sworn in Colonel James immediately answered that he had been.

he had been.

They Took Immediate Possession.

As soon as the first formalities were over Colonel Darnell, whose commission did not expire until today, tendered Colonel James his office and the new district attorney accepted and went to work at once. The approval of the seven warrants mentioned was his first official act.

Colonel Rucker, assistant district attorney, left last evening for home, where he will remain until tomorrow. Colonel Darnell will not leave the city for several days yet, as he has not as yet had a conference with Colonel James He has, however, placed his services at the disposal of the placed his services at the disposal of the district attorney.

Germs of Disease

like consumption germs, for instance, may be taken into the system at any time. But when the system is undermined the germs take root and grow. After a hard Winter the body needs a nourishment (not a mere tonic or medicine,) to help ride out the storms of Spring and withstand disease. Exposure to disease now means the taking of disease, unless the system is properly nourished.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

of COD-LIVER OIL, with hypophosphites of lime and soda, is a food which builds up new tissue quickly, and helps to overcome the germs of disease. It supplies what has been consumed in Winter and thus fortifies the system against sudden changes in temperature, and damp, piercing winds. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.
